HITLER'S PEACE 'IMPOSSIBLE,' CHAMBERLAIN'S REPLY TO NAZIS

RIVAL FORCES SEEK TO EASE U. S. SHIP BAN

Friends and Foes of Embargo on Arms Join in Move to Modify Shipping Curb.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., a Republican presidential contender, supported the Roosevelt Administration's arms embargo repeal program today with a declaration that it would increase U. S. neutrality and put the nation "in a stronger position to resist all possible involvement in Europe."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Leaders of both sides of the arms embargo controversy sought today to modify the neutrality bill's rigid ban on American ships trading with belligerents.

Half a dozen senators arranged to confer with Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the foreign relations committee on as many proposed changes. Details were not disclosed.

Meanwhile, four more speakers asked for time to carry on the senate's neutrality debate—Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) and Bulow (D-SD) for retention of the arms embargo and Chavez (D-NM) and Taft (R-Ohio) for repeal.

Senator Bailey (D-NC), an advocate of embargo repeal and one of those favoring modification of the shipping restrictions, said he was satisfied that changes would be made "tending to preserve the interests of our merchant marine, which is a great arm of our national defense."

"It is certain," he said, "nothing will be done inconsistent with preserving the peace of this country. This is going to be a war of strangulation according to all evidences, and this strangulation relates directly to commerce on the seas.

"Germany will wish to cut off British and French supplies, and Britain and France will wish to cut off German supplies. We are trying to adjust our seaborne commerce to that situation."

The neutrality bill would require belligerents to pay cash (or limit credits to 90-days) for American purchases, which they would have to transport in foreign ships. Thus American vessels would be banned not only from the nations at war in Europe but from British and French possessions around the world.

LINDBERGH MAPS 2ND RADIO TALK

Speaks Tomorrow On Relation of U. S. To War In Europe.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will make a second radio speech on the United States' relation to the European war tomorrow from 9:30 to 9:45 p. m., over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The address, it was said, will be a continuation of his widely-discussed speech several weeks ago in which he urged the United States to do everything possible to avoid involvement in the European conflict.

FOUNDER, 57, DIES

James Mills, Head of Ohio Chain of Restaurants, Taken By Death.

CINCINNATI —(A.P.)— James O. Mills, 57, founder of a chain of Ohio restaurants bearing his name, died today. He had been in ill health for several years. He was born near Marysville, O.

Promises Death Ray If U. S. Needs It

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Dr. Antonio Longoria, wealthy retired Cleveland scientist, today declared that if the United States were subjected to unwarranted attack by a foreign nation he would re-create the "death ray" machine which he destroyed, he said, because of his dismay over its deadly effectiveness. "If some nation is looking for trouble," said Doctor Longoria, "there is plenty in my machine."

MYSTERY DEATH QUIZ CONTINUES

Officers Extend Inquiry Into Loudonville Case, Sheriff Believes Man Fell.

LOUDONVILLE—While investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Lewis E. Sprang, 58, were being continued today by Ashland county authorities, Sheriff Dale Hammond expressed the opinion that it was an accident.

Sprang was found dead in a blood-stained room of his home here Tuesday by Marshall Bert Conrad and Mayor E. L. Smith, who had been called to break into the house by Sprang's brother, Amos Sprang.

The man had been dead about 24 hours, according to Coroner George Emery and both the kitchen and living room bore a bloody trail indicating that he had been injured in the kitchen and had attempted to crawl to a davenport in the adjoining room.

Coroner Emery had not given a formal verdict today, but he

HONOR HUBBARD

Ex-Mansfielder Elected to Journalism Hall of Fame.

The two new names to be added to Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame on Oct. 27 will include that of a former Mansfield newspaperman.

They are Frank M. "Kin" Hubbard, noted humorist and cartoonist, and Brand Whitlock, wartime ambassador from the United States to Belgium, who were selected today by Ohio newspapers as the two new additions to the Hall of Fame this year.

Hubbard worked on the Mansfield News for several years and began his cartooning here, which later led to the "Abe Martin" daily cartoon which was familiar to millions of American readers.

Whitlock was also a native of Ohio and had worked on newspapers in Chicago and Toledo, and later served as mayor of Toledo for three terms.

BOTH LOSE BET

Men Wager On Curb Stopping Auto; It Doesn't—They'll Pay $100.

ATHOL, Mass—(A.P.)—This is one way of settling an argument, albeit a little expensive.

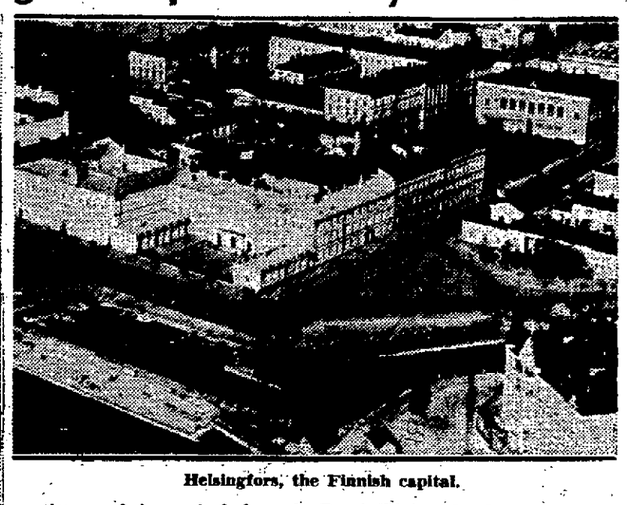
One young man held that a main street curbing was high enough to stop a coasting automobile. The other said no. So they lined up a car, owned by one of them, gave it a push and let it coast. It jumped over the curbing and smashed two plate glass windows in a store. That'll cost them $100.

CAR LOADINGS UP

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Loading of revenue freight for the week Oct. 7 totalled 834,694 cars, an increase of 54 cars above the preceding week and an increase of 132,078 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

As Finland Gets Ready To Fight---Capital of Tiny Nation

Finnish soldiers dig trenches on Soviet border.



Helsingfors, the Finnish capital.

While Finnish envoys in Moscow prepared to give Russia an emphatic "no," if Soviet demands mean loss of the tiny nation's freedom, the Finns at home prepared for the worst. Fortifications are being rushed along the Russia-Finland border and troops were being mobilized. The above picture shows a part of the preparation work done to stave off the Soviet army, if need be, until help can come. In Helsingfors, capital of Finland, a large scale exodus of non-combatants was taking place today as soldiers prepared to defend the city.

LABORER, HIT BY TRUCK, DIES

Machine Backs Over Workman on Road Project East of Mansfield.

A 42-year-old colored laborer died in the General hospital yesterday from injuries suffered when hit by a truck while working on a road widening project on U. S. route 30, three miles east of Mansfield.

The victim was Charles Holliday, of 7 Raymond street, an employe of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, who died of internal injuries and burns, shortly after he was taken to the hospital, physicians said.

Company officials said Holliday, who had worked for the firm only a month, was struck from the rear by one of the company's trucks which backed over him.

Witnesses said the rear wheels of the truck passed over the man's body and a bucket of hot asphalt he was carrying spilled on him. The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company has the contract for the project.

The body, removed to the Geiger funeral home, is to be shipped to LaGrange, Georgia, today for burial.

Besides his wife, Clara, Holliday is survived by his mother in LaGrange.

FREED BY JURY

LISBON—(A.P.)—George Ludwig, 57, held in custody since July 26, when he reported finding the body of his landlord, Andrew Drotleff, 60, slain in his home at nearby Salem, was free today after the grand jury failed to return an indictment against him.

Iroquois Safe, Passengers Tell of 'Trip of Horrors'

Ship Germans Said Would Be Sunk Reaches Port With 788 Rumor-Tortured Travelers, Crewmen.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A terrific three-day storm and an ever-flowing stream of sinister rumors tortured 788 Americans—577 passengers and 211 crewmen—who reached New York last night on the liner Iroquois—the ship which the German admiralty warned would be sunk supposedly by an Allied belligerent.

Ablaze with lights, the 12-year-old vessel dropped anchor to the cheers of some 2,000 who had gathered to greet her. A giant spotlight played on a large American flag at her stern. Other powerful lights were directed on two other flags—12 by 20 feet—painted on her sides.

BERLIN—(A.P.)—Authoritative German quarters said today they considered the fact that the refugee ship Iroquois reached New York safely was "proof that the German navy's fraternal attitude toward America had yielded a 100 per cent success."

Mrs. Mary Stiegelman of Baltimore, one of the passengers, declared, "If ever there were a

ROME—(U.P.)—Five persons were killed at the Forli airdrome today when a tri-motored military plane crashed into the building during the take-off. The dead were three members of the crew and two men who were working in the building.

JOBS PERILED

60,000 Men Face Idleness in Auto Workers' Dispute.

DETROIT —(A.P.)— Threatened idleness for 60,000 men, with Chrysler corporation and the CIO United Automobile Workers stalemated in an assembly line dispute, today posed the biggest labor problem for the automobile industry since 1937.

After five days of wrangling over production speeds at the main Dodge plant, neither side expressed hopes of early settlement.

Chrysler's eight Detroit plants employing 40,000 production workers faced another day of inaction. A similar situation confronted the Briggs Manufacturing company, employing 15,000, because of a shortage of materials furnished by Chrysler.

MEXICO CITY—(A.P.)—The National Gallery of Fine Arts said today that a painting which it attributed to Murillo, 17th century Spanish master, had been discovered in a pile of junk.

FARMERS SCORE BIGELOW PLAN

Resolution Adopted by County Bureau Charges It Would Threaten Government.

The Richland County farm bureau today had adopted a resolution opposing the Bigelow pension plan which will be up for a vote in Ohio at the November election.

R. L. Smith, county farm bureau president, described the pension proposal as "so vague in practically all of its clauses that the best lawyers in the state can't figure out what they mean."

Smith added that "most any interpretation of the plan will bring hardships and inequities to thousands of our citizens."

He pointed out that although the farm bureau favors adequate care for the aged, it opposes the Bigelow plan because it would "make the pension come first—a first mortgage on all of the taxable resources in Ohio."

He emphasized that the plan would nearly double the $392,000,000 Ohioans now pay annually for state and local government, while the income sources suggested in

ALL BUSES PASS STATE INSPECTION

Highway Patrol Corrects Report, Says Newcomer's Bus O. K.

All school buses operated in rural Richland county districts passed the recent inspection by the state highway patrol, a recheck of the records showed today.

Carbon copies of inspection reports received yesterday by Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, showed a bus owned and operated by John Newcomer in Springfield township as "inadequate." Today it was found that Newcomer's bus passed inspection and was given a class B rating which is satisfactory. Forty-six other buses also received a class B rating.

Patrolmen corrected the report today, explaining that the report Robinson had received was in error.

RETIRES AT 80

Frank Morrison, Official in A. F. of L. Since 1896, Resigns Post.

Too Bad for Crooks—Dick Tracy, Comic Strip Detective, Gets on Job Tomorrow

Police Ace, Buddy to Join News-Journal 'Family' of Characters.

STARTING tomorrow a new personality comes to join The News-Journal's family of comics and will be a daily feature in the future.

Because tired business men turn to them for relaxation and small boys read them for thrills, detective stories are the most popular of all types of fiction. This probably is the explanation for the nation-wide popularity of "Dick Tracy."

This cartoon strip is actually a continued detective story, swinging into one episode after another, always with Dick Tracy and his buddy, Pat Patton, finding the right answer.

The theme of the strip is "you can't get away with it," and no matter how clever the crooks, law enforcements agents find a way to trip them up.

Right now Dick and Pat are engaged in trapping a gang of wholesale fur thieves and hijackers. Dick already has obtained a pelt as evidence—by puting a wad of chewing gum on the back of his coat, backing up to the pile of pelts and then putting his top coat over the pelt. He also secured plans of the gang to hold up a fur truck on the Ganeville road.

Dick and Pat plan to be on the Ganeville road to meet the hold-up car. In the meantime the crooks load 50 gallons of old crank case oil into a milk truck and start for the curve on the Ganeville road, and that's where the story picks up in tomorrow's News-Journal — Dick and Pat cruising the road, looking for the truck load of furs and the hi-jackers car.

Once you start following Dick Tracy, you won't miss a day of his exploits.

Assails 'Pledge Breaker,' Calls For Guarantees

Declares Britain's Honor Would Be Forfeited If She Accepted Terms Of Chancellor; Continuation Of War Up To Germany, Premier Says.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(U.P.)—Nazis said today that it was to be assumed that "the war will go on" as a result of the Allies' complete rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace proposals. The Fuehrer and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop were understood to have conferred on the speech.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Great Britain and France today rejected the "impossible" peace terms offered by Adolf Hitler and warned Germany to choose between definite guarantees for permanent European security or "war to the utmost of our strength."

The Allied powers cannot trust the "unsupported word" of the Nazi government, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons, again implying that Germany must eliminate the Hitler regime to "achieve a real and settled peace."

"What stands in the way of such peace?" he asked dramatically. Then he answered:

"It is the German government and the German government alone."

Chamberlain, whose speech was supported immediately by labor and liberal leaders in commons, warned that if the war goes on the future world will be different from anything "we have known before." He made no reference to Communism or Soviet Russia.

"Whatever may issue from the struggle," he said, "the world will not be the same world we have known before."

But, the prime minister declared, the peace terms advanced by Hitler—whom he denounced as an aggressor and a breaker of pledges—could be accepted only if Britain

AT THE FRONT: See Germans Strike Through Luxembourg

BULLETIN

PARIS—(U.P.)—Fighting on the western front has emerged from the advance guard phase into "front line action" in which British troops are participating, an official announcement said today.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—The first indications of where the spearhead of Germany's offensive may strike on the western front were seen today in reports that Nazi engineers have begun to construct pontoon bridges across the Rhine near Mayence (Mainz) across the Saar river just south of Luxembourg.

These reports were received in Paris as German troops took the initiative in the west and carried out the heaviest raid the Saar sector has seen since commencement of hostilities.

The pontoon bridges will facilitate the massing and movement of troops.

MOSCOW: Defiant Finland To Learn Demands of Soviet Today

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(A.P.)—The American government, it was learned authoritatively today, is expressing to Soviet Russia its "earnest hope" that nothing may occur calculated "to affect injuriously" peaceful relations between Russia and Finland.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Soviet Russian government was ready for political and economic talks this afternoon or tonight with Finland, apparently the toughest customer thus far in the Kremlin's Baltic bargaining.

Finland, once a grand duchy of Imperial Russia, had complied with a Soviet invitation to parley but did so without hurry—and it appeared that her answer likewise would be unhurried.

Headed by Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, one-time premier of Finland and new minister to Sweden, the Finnish delegation arrived yesterday by train and it was expected that Paasikivi would return to Helsinki after learning exactly what the Russians want and report to the Finnish cabinet before giving any answer.

CRIME TEARS ON + + + + +

By CAROLYN WELLS

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER XXVIII

"With the usual motive for the second murder, Hetty must have seen Craig go into his uncle's room or come out of it, or must have discovered his connection with the crime, in some other way. She doubtless told him what she knew, and he had to silence her tongue forever."

Then Craig spoke:

"There is no word of truth in anything you have said, Mr. Sutton. You have tried to pin my uncle's murder on me, and now you are accusing me of killing Hetty. Why, I was thirty miles away from here when she died!"

"I know that. But you poisoned her before you started on the drive. Bichloride of mercury is not an immediate poison, nor even a speedy one. You gave it to her in some way, before you left, and you also administered a drug, which would lesson the pain, but would not interfere with its deadly effect. Come, Mr. Craig Madison, confess. You murdered your uncle and an old family servant. Your guilt is known, it is proved, and I assure you it is to your advantage to make full confession. Accept my advice, and tell your story now."

"Do nothing of the sort, Craig," Fleming Stone said. "This case is in my care, Mr. Sutton, and I have a right to advise my clients as I see fit. I hold that you have made statements that are open to question, that you have no evidence for what you called facts, I think your great desire to inculpate this young man has led you to enlarge and exaggerate possibilities into facts. If it is your intention to arrest Mr. Madison, I cannot stop you, but I do ask you to reflect on the consequences to yourself, if you have chosen the wrong man."

For the first time Sutton seemed to sense the situation. All could see his sudden change of demeanor, and his realization that he might be making a mistake. He strove hard to preserve his independent manner, and said, in a condescending way:

"You have not changed my opinions at all, Mr. Stone, but I am willing to adjourn until I can get some further evidence, which I shall have no trouble in doing, I assure you. Mr. Craig Madison must be kept under surveillance, and within twenty-four hours, I shall have the facts that I know well where to obtain."

Stone made no reply to this and. the session being over, all went their various ways. Stone to his own room, and refused admittance to any one. He had been sincere in his criticism of Sutton's statements, but he was not sure the authorities would agree with him.

Then impatient to be learning something, Stone went in search of Craig. In Craig's room he found the three Madisons in conclave. They welcomed Stone and he sat down among them.

Cornelia seemed sad and upset. Craig looked hopeless and brokenhearted. Tom Sheldon, wide-awake and frankly curious, hoped Stone would tell them what to do next.

Stone said:

"What's this story of Kellogg's about Miss Verne going to his office in New York when she was here at Silver Hill?"

"Mistake on the lawyer's part." Craig said, speaking carelessly; "Maybe Kellogg wasn't there and his office boy reported a wrong name or something. Anyway, we know that she was here at that time, so why bother about Kellogg?"

"Tell me about the picnic on Saturday," Stone said.

"It was a very nice picnic," Cornelia told him. "I felt it would be a good thing for us all to have a little outing."

"You all went in one car?"

"No," Tom said; Craig and Yvette, or Avis as she calls herself, went by themselves in the roadster, and the rest of us went in the big car. They dawdled, but we spun ahead and had almost eaten up the food when they arrived."

"Nothing of the sort, Tom." Craig smiled at his cousin. "Never believe that chap, Mr. Stone; he makes up stories for the fun of it."

"But you were late, Craig," Cornelia said; "of course, there was lots of food, and I wanted you to have a nice drive with Avis, so it was all right!"

Stone smiled at Craig, and said:

"Did you and Miss Verne stay in the car all the way?"

"Why, yes. What do you mean?"

"Neither of you left the car?"

"We did not, and I'll ask you to explain yourself."

"I will. Wilkins told me an odd story. He says that after you had all gone on the picnic Saturday afternoon, less than a half hour after you started, Miss Verne came back, came in the house, went up to her own room, stayed there fifteen or twenty minutes, and then came down and went away again!"

"What of it?"

"Nothing of it, if you can explain why she came here."

"Some errand of her own. Forgotten her lipstick or something."

"You brought her back here then, after you had started for the picnic?"

"Yes, of course, — dammit, I can't tell you."

"There is a secret of some sort about Miss Verne?" Stone said.

"Yes," Craig spoke firmly, "but it is not my secret,—I cannot tell it to you."

"Whose secret is it, then?"

"Her own,—Miss Verne's."

Cornelia said: "Go and get her, Craig. Bring her here to speak for herself."

"No," said Stone, "you go, Tom. Bring Miss Verne here. Please. Say we all want her."

Tom left, only to return, saying Miss Verne could not be found. Nobody knew where she was.

Craig jumped to his feet. "I must find her!" he cried. "She is mine! We are engaged! If any harm has come to her—"

"Sit down, Craig," Stone commanded. "Sutton won't let you go off the place, and he will overhear your telephoning. Let me hunt for her."

"You can't! You don't know where she is. I do."

Cornelia rose. Her face was full of love and pity as she looked at Craig, who was clenching his hands.

"I will find her," she said, and left the room, gently closing the door after her.

"Dear Aunt Cornelia," said Craig, "she's lay down her life for us two boys, but she can't find Avis. No one can find her except myself, and I'm not sure that I can."

"Do you never feel," asked Stone, "that you'd like to tell us the secret, the mystery that seems to hang round Miss Verne? We know her well enough to be certain it is nothing to her detriment, and it might help materially in our endeavors to get at the truth."

"Very cleverly put, Mr. Stone," Craig said, "but you don't catch me out that way. I do know something about Miss Verne, that I am under a solemn vow not to tell, but I assure you, on my honor, that it has not the slightest bearing on any matters connected with this house or its people. She has gone away because of that secret, and until I know where she is, I am powerless to help her. But I shall find her."

He got up and marched out of the room.

Stone had been wanting an opportunity to talk to Sheldon alone, so he remained. The two men sat silent for a moment, and then Tom said, a little brokenly:

"Mr. Stone, suppose it was Craig!"

Stone would have given much to know how far this speech was sincere, and he set himself to find out.

"I'm beginning to have some grave suspicions," he said, "but I can't tell them. If you know anything definite, you tell me."

"I don't know anything definite, and I want to state clearly, that I do not suspect Craig of Uncle Harley's death. Let that be understood."

"I don't want to, and I won't suspect," his cousin Tom said to Stone. "We three Madisons may be said to have gained finincially by Uncle Harley's death, but that proves nothing. We are not mercenary and we have a strong family affection."

"I know that, Tom; and I know, too, that your uncle was most generous, even lavish in his allowances to you bays, and to his sister as well."

"I'll thank you sir, to leave my aunt's name out of this conversation! She is a saint on earth, if there ever was one, and I will not have her mentioned in my presence in any connection with my uncle's murder!"

"Don't be a fool, Tom," Stone spoke sternly. "No individual's name is sacred, nor does the mention of it imply the least shade of suspicion. Miss Madison is one of three people who profited financially by your uncle's death, and when I say I exonerate all three of you from any breath of suspicion, in my own mind, I naturally include your aunt.

DEVICE SPEEDS TEETH X-RAYS

Small-Town Dentist Invents Machine Which Permits Pictures Immediately.

MILWAUKEE—(U.P.)— A small-town dentist who disliked making his patients come back a second time to discover the results of an X-ray has invented a device which enables him to throw enlarged X-ray pictures on a screen within a few minutes after they are taken.

Dr. Irving Cook of Gillett, Wis., exhibited his invention at the American Dental Asociation convention here.

The previous problem of drying the films which took considerable time has been solved by attaching the film to a wheel which then dries them by centrifugal force in a few minutes. The same stainless steel reel has a number of slots into which the films are placed beforehand for developing. Dr. Cook also has developed a high-powered projector which utilizes the reel as a film magazine, throwing pictures of the tooth on a screen for the patient to see while still in the dental chair.

"I've found that the patient becomes intensely interested in his teeth when he can be shown," Cook said.

Explaining other advantages of the device, he said it would replace about $1,000 worth of models the ordinary dentist keeps in his office to explain his patient's troubles. The models are not satisfactory, he explained, because they are artificial.

"My device," he said, "will cost only $100. Besides using it in his office, the denitst can utilize it for clinical demonstrations and for public lectures—say to school children—for it will throw an image large enough to fill a screen 8 by 10 feet, and by using modern color film the lesson is made extremely vivid."

LINE TOO BUSY

Shed Burns While Parties Refuse to Yield Phone.

LORAIN — (U.P.) — Mary Spahia no longer can appreciate the humor of the story of Nero fiddling while Rome burned.

Miss Spahia ran to a neighbor's telephone when a shed began burning. She found the party line in use. They refused to hang up, although Miss Spahia pleaded it was a fire-alarm call.

The shed had burned by the time firemen had been summoned via another neighbor's phone.

Aid For Finland

In event Russia decides Finland would be a tender morsel to devour, and Finland fights back as indicated, a women's auxiliary, commanded by Fanni Luukkonen, above, is ready to assist the homeland. The women's organization is known as the Lotta Svard.

BUCYRUS—Chief of Police Arthur Stuckert is investigating the forced entrance to the City Coal and Building Supply company office Tuesday night. The safe, which was unlocked, was looted but a check up showed nothing missing. Entrance was gained through a door from the supply room.

TOWN OF 1690 TO BE RESTORED

Episcopal Leaders Push Plans To Rehabilitate Old Seaport Of Bath, N. C.

BATH, N. C.—(U.P.)—Restoration of the quaint old seaport of Bath, N. C., is giving to modern America the haunts of Blackbeard the Pirate, the church attended by early American colonists and homes built more than two centuries ago.

Plans for restoring the historical village are being pushed by the Episcopal leaders of the East Carolina Diocese. There interest springs from the Bath Episcopal church, built in 1834, and recognized as the oldest church building in the state today.

Called "The Cathedral" because it is ruled directly by the bishop, the building still is in excellent condition with original handmade doors and hand-cut wooden pews. It is to be restored and converted into a national shrine.

A museum will be opened near the church and a colonial garden planted in the rear. The church bell, still rung for services, was presented to the parish by Queen Anne of England, and a silver candelabra on the altar was the gift of King George II.

The old Marsh house nearby, built in 1714, will be converted into a rectory. Architecturally unique, it has an English brick chimney 17 feet wide and four feet thick with huge windows that open on closets.

Also to be rehabilitated is the public library, started in 1700. It was the first library in North Carolina.

Of great interests are the ruins of an old house near Bath creek where Edward Teach—"blackbeard the Pirate"—is said to have lived during his days of power. Ruins of his ships may be seen there at low tide.

Bath has grown little since it was settled by white men about 1690. Originally it was the Indian town of Pampticiugh, but was renamed for the English city when it was incorporated in 1705.

FRESH EGGS MAY VARY

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — The term "fresh eggs" depends upon where you are. A WPA research project here found that in six states only those produced within the state are "fresh eggs," and several states require not only branding of containers but add a stipulation that each egg be stamped "shipped."

Political Career For Al, Jr.

With the helping hand of his father, Alfred E. Smith, jr., launches a political career in New York by filing a petition for New York City councilman. His father, Alfred E. Smith, sr., former governor of New York and Democratic presidential candidate, is with him.

PUBLIC VIEWS TOYS, PLAYROOM OF BRITISH PRINCESSES' IN INFANCY

LONDON—(U.P.)—Princess Margaret Rose used the same plain bassinette cot, with a white-painted iron frame, that held Princess Elizabeth in her infancy.

This cot, their babyhood playthings and the bathroom they used, with its large old-fashioned porcelain bath and wash-basin, are among the things surrounding their early childhood which can now be seen by the public at their old home at 145 Piccadilly.

An exhibition of royal and historic treasures, in the house where the king and queen and the little princesses lived before Edward VIII abdicated has been placed on view, where the public can see it until Sept. 29. Proceeds from the admission will go to the Heritage Craft Schools, at Chailey, Sussex.

Virtually all of the rooms used by the family before it moved to Buckingham Palace are on view. Other members of the royal family lent objects of interest, and the whole exhibition has been insured for 1,000,000 pounds.

The center of interest for most visitors is the suite on the second floor occupied by the princesses. There they can see the old playroom and Princess Margaret's tiny bedroom. Both rooms overlook Picadilly, and double windows deaden the noise of traffic outside. Stout iron bars were placed across the windows for safety. From Princess Elizabeth's bedroom a bay window overlooks the garden at the back. The walls of the suite were decorated with plain gray-green wallpaper and the woodwork was cream colored.

The center of Princess Elizabeth's room has been filled with the favorite toys of the two children.

Pat, a sturdy little boy doll wearing a yellow jersey and breeches, is said to have been the favorite of the royal dolls. Another, rivalling Pat in the princesses' esteem, was a doll dresed in a Welsh costume, which was carefully inspected by David Lloyd George before it was given to the children, so that the details are perfect.

There is the furniture which the princesses used when they gave their dolls tea parties, a wooden doll cradle made for them by members of the crew of the yacht Victoria and Albert, and an old Victorian watch which Elizabeth played with until it was broken.

The princesses cot stands in the center of the toys.

Bellville Seeks Fifth Straight Grid Victory

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

NEW YORK'S YANKEES and Joe Louis are alike in one respect—each is so far superior to the rest of the field that when they come up for a title defense the result should be labeled "No Contest."

Pleasant surprises have been few and far between at Ohio State during the stormy coaching career of Francis Schmidt, but now he's jarred the High street quarterbacks into their old-time frenzy.

Notre Dame and Michigan, early season candidates for the mythical national championship, developed the same weaknesses last Saturday—lack of adequate reserves.

Cincinnati papers say now they are beginning to believe some of the things they read about the Yanks.

Mansfield's Tygers compiled five first downs against the great Massillon club. That's more than any other team has been able to do against Massillon this year, if that means anything.

"Ohio State which is figuring to take Cornell in stride, should get wise to itself in a hurry."—Eddie Brietz.

The Yankees think Paul Derringer is a swell guy. Not only as a pitcher, either. He was the only Red to go into the Yanks' dressing room after the final series game and congratulate the winners.

We imagine you've heard about that little argument involving Derringer and Ival Goodman in the clubhouse after the first game of the series. The pitcher took Ival to task for dropping Keller's three-bagger. No fisticuffs, however.

THEY ALL BOWL

One little sentence, but in it lies
A magic as in no other;
The family cheers as the pin-wood flies—
It's another strike for Mother!
—San Antonio Light.

Cornell, Tech Rank On Top With Pitt.

RIGHT now Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Cornell seem to be the strongest grid teams in the east, Oklahoma, Michigan, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Ohio State look great in the middlewest. Utah is tops in the Rockies and U. S. C., Oregon, St. Mary's and U. C. L. A. are drawing the plaudits on the west coast.

That's going to be quite a game on the coast. . . . Oct. 20, we mean. College of Pacific meets San Jose State. It's Stagg vs. Warner! They met only once before on the grid. Then Warner won. Maybe Stagg'll even the count.

A recent magazine article about quarterbacking football teams from the bench recalls the coach-quarterbacking strategy used by Jimmy Aiken when he directed Canton McKinley. Jim assigned uniform numbers to his bench warmers corresponding to the McKinley play repertoire. Whenever

Told to Watch De Correvont's Running Mate

Ohio State Hears Hahnenstein Can Lug Football, Too; Showed It in Loss.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — In their eagerness to throttle the gridiron antics of Bill De Correvont next Saturday, the Ohio State Bucks will be wise not to neglect one Oliver (Red) Hahnenstein.

Ollie the Red ranks several yards behind De Correvont in newspaper clippings this fall but on the gridiron Red rates highly enough with Coach Lynn Waldorf to outrank the much-publicized sophomore as the No. 1 Northwestern left halfback.

Hahnenstein's individual running, passing and kicking performance brightened an otherwise black Saturday for the Wildcats last week in the Oklahoma upset.

The Northwestern junior picked up 45 yards in nine running attempts, completed eight out of 13 passes tries for 88 yards and averaged considerably better than 40 yards on his punts. De Correvont averaged slightly better in ground gaining with 33 yards in six attempts but did no passing or kicking.

Incidentally, Waldorf's third left halfback, Paul Soper, also average better than five yards in ball-toting with 21 yards in four chances.

Waldorf this week has been concentrating on development of the extra punch to shake either of these three lads loose into touchdown territory.

The Wildcats are expected to "bounce" hard from their Oklahoma defeat. Only four regulars are missing from last year's eleven that lost only one Big Ten game and 23 lettermen run two and three deep at all but two positions. In addition, the sophomore contenders are the best in years and several threaten to displace veterans from starting jobs.

Coach Francis Schmidt continues to stress speed and defense today as his Bucks seek their 12th win in the Northeastern-Ohio State football series. Northwestern has won only five times and one contest, last year's ended in a scoreless deadlock.

More than 70,000 persons are expected to give Ohio stadium a near capacity crowd for this initial conference game for each school. The winner automatically wil become a strong title favorite.

BOOSTERS CLUB TO MEET AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

A meeting of the Boosters' club will be held at Mansfield high school at 8 p. m. Friday, Walter Spencer, one of the organizers of the club announced today.

Spencer requests all former members to attend, and also invites prospective members.

JENKINS STOPS FOE

NEW YORK—Lew Jenkins, 130¾, Sweetwater, Tex., stopped Primo Flores, 135¼, Puerto Rico, (5).

Butler Plays Freds

Fendrick Plans Lineup Shifts For Friday's Game With Upper Sandusky.

BELLVILLE high school's gridsters will seek their fifth straight victory of the season on their home gridiron Friday afternoon, and Butler, scheduled at the same time, will travel to Fredericktown in an attempt to register its first triumph.

Coach Royd Hodge's snappy Bellville outfit is a heavy favorite to trim Mt. Gilead, which has one victory to show against two defeats. The Indians are not expected to be push-overs, however. They held Carey, victor over Galion, to one touchdown, and defeated Butler, 13 to 6.

Mt. Gilead's big job will be to hold Howard Hamilton, who is one of the scoring leaders in the state with 61 points.

Coach Bob Burgett's Butler eleven is showing gradual improvement, and is overdue. The Bulldogs dropped their first two games to LaRue and Centerburg without tallying a point, scored one touchdown as they bowed to Mt. Gilead, 13 to 6, and fell before the Mt. Vernon reserve by one point, 20 to 19, last week.

Burgett

Fredericktown has beaten Ashley and Centerburg, and its only defeat was administered by Bellville.

Crestline, located on the edge of the county, is expected to encounter trouble in its attempt to hang up its fifth straight win. The Onondagas are hosts to Tiffin Calvert Friday night. Loudonville, Ashland county's only Class B representative, plays at Millersburg.

Shelby of Richland county has no assignment this week other than those given by Coach Bill Query on the practice field.

* * *

The Whippets are the only N. C. O. conference club not in action this week. Mt. Vernon performs at Galion, Friday night in the only title game, Ashland is host to Wooster and Marion entertains Toledo Woodward in non-conference competition.

Wrigley Delays Choice of Pilot

CHICAGO—(AP)—When P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, makes up his mind on a 1940 manager, it is going to be an owner's decision, not a "fan's" decision. "I would like to wait a few days—until I stop being a fan—to give consideration to that question," he said today.

Right now Wrigley considers himself a disgruntled fan, and as long as he remains one it's apparent Manager Gabby Hartnett is on the spot.

The Cub boss was disappointed at the fourth place finish of his National League entry which "save for occasional spells, didn't look like a real team." He was more distressed at the Cubs' loss in the city series after holding a 3-1 game edge. On top of that he has indicated the club would finish in the red financially for the first time since the 1935 season.

BUCKY HARRIS TO PILOT NATS AGAIN NEXT YEAR

WASHINGTON—(INS)— Stanley "Bucky" Harris, "Boy Wonder" manager of the Washington American League baseball club when it won its first pennant 15 years ago, today had a contract to manage the club another year. Of his 17 years as manager, Harris has served 11 in Washington. Terms of his contract were not revealed by President Clark Griffith.

Friday, the 13th, May Be Unlucky for Foe, Too.

MINNEAPOLIS—(U.P.)—Henry Armstrong, who has learned from the stars that Friday is apt to be a sad day for him, risks his welterweight boxing championship tomorrow night—on Friday the 13th.

Homicide Henry is matched with Challenger Howard Scott of Washington, D. C., who worries him less than the signs of the zodiac. Armstrong retains all the pet superstitions he picked up as a shoe shine boy in St. Louis just a few years back.

"Come to think of it," he grinned, "it'll be just as unlucky for him as me."

Walter Fensch's 659 High In Plant Loop

Ed Forman Features 619 Series With 267 Game; Merchandise Service Leads Team Scoring.

WALTER FENSCH had his eyes peeled for strikes last night, and he marked up the best individual score of the season in the Westinghouse plant league at the Meder alleys.

Bowling with the Merchandise Service club, Fensch came through with a brilliant 659 series, which was divided into scores of 184, 257 and 218.

Fensch's 257 was big, but not quite as brilliant as Ed Forman's 267. The Shipping No. 1 team kegler sandwiched this game between scores of 186 and 166 for a 619.

Opening with games of 209 and 220, F. Ealy of the Inspectors missed the 600 group by one pin when he closed with a 170.

The Merchandise Service club annexed team scoring laurels with 2583, and the Iron Finishing was next with 2518.

The ratings in this table do not necessarily denote the relative strength of any one team to all other teams in the table. It does denote the relative rating and comparison to that team's opponent.

KEY TO RATING TABLE

Team listed in capitals is the probable winner. A 3.000 difference in ratings is usually one touchdown difference in computing letters following the opponent's rating denote:—T. A possible tie game. R. Possible reverse of choice. RR. Choice, reverse of ratings. TR. Very close game, no upset if RR.

Tygers Seek Revenge for 1938 Defeat

Henke Shifted to Backfield in Drills for Sandusky Game Saturday.

MORE anxious to win their next game than any remaining on the schedule, Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers stepped through another brisk workout at Stadium field today in preparation for their annual tussle with the strong Sandusky grid forces.

Beaten 45 to 0 by the Blue Streaks last year, the Mansfield high school pigskin toters are determined to avenge the walloping in a game which is expected to attract the largest crowd of the season at the Tyger lair.

Snyder stressed speed in the offensive drills this week, and planned several lineup changes to obtain it.

Martin Henke, one of the scrappiest of the Tygers, has been performer well in the line, but Snyder has shifted him to the backfield this week in an attempt to bolster the attack.

Henke will undoubtedly be at fullback when the Tygers line up against the Blue Streaks, and, according to present indications, will do much of the Mansfield passing.

Howard Hershey, one of the few Tyger backs who has lived up to expectations this fall, will be in the tailback position Saturday, with Dave Templeton and either Bill Doolittle or Bob Lantz filling the other backfield posts.

Lantz has not appeared in the lineup for more than two weeks due to an operation on his arm, but he will be able to don livery again Saturday.

Snyder is also working with Capt. Mike Horvath and Bob Sauder as line backers in drills this week, and believe they may help to strengthen the defense against the devastating Sandusky throws.

With Henke shifted from the line, John Pfahler will probably get the call at an end post Saturday. Pfahler has shown enough in his appearances this year to deserve a starting assignment, Snyder said.

110-Pound Frosh Slated for Action.

A 110-POUND freshman, three sophomores, two juniors and five seniors will fill the Madison high school lineup Friday night when they return to Class B competition against Upper Sandusky on the Rams' gridiron.

Radical changes in the Madison starting lineup will be necessitated by injuries suffered by Bill and Bob Heichel, Barber, Folmer and Nazelinck, Coach Al Fendrick announced today.

The lineup shifts will also find DeNero dividing his time between right end and a halfback post.

The 110-pound frosh to see action is Hammer, who will start at right half.

Upper Sandusky should give the thrice-beaten Rams a difficult evening. The club showed its mettle last week when it tied Tiffin Calvert, which won the Tiffin city title by defeating both Columbian and Junior Order Home.

Although beaten, Upper Sandusky also scored twice against Marion, one of the crack N. C. O. teams this fall.

HENS BUY CATCHER

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns announced today the sale of Catcher Hal Spindel to the Toledo club of the American Association. He batted .269 in 48 games with the Browns this year.

Barons Sell Extra Goalie to Syracuse.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The Cleveland Barons of the International-American Hockey league today announced the sale of Goalie Bill Beveridge to the Syracuse Stars of the same loop. Beveridge, obtained a year ago from the defunct Montreal Maroons, played with New Haven and Providence on loan last season. The regular Cleveland goalie is veteran Moe Roberts.

Notre Dame Reserve 'Deck' to Get Another Shuffle for Game With Southern Methodist.

By EARL HILLIGAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, gambling the Irish chances for an unbeaten season on a group of inexperienced substitutes, will give the Notre Dame reserve "deck" another shuffle Saturday.

Poker-faced Elmer isn't kidding himself about what lies ahead. He knows his club will have its hands full Saturday afternoon against the Mustangs of Southern Methodist university. But while he isn't worrying out loud about the remainder of a "suicide" schedule, he knows that one thing alone will keep his Irish machine "in high"—development of a tested, capable second string eleven.

"Against Purdue the reserves looked weak," he said today. "They didn't go so bad against Georgia Tech. But we have to give them more work. We are a little leary of their ability, no question of that, and we don't want to take too much chance on losing games. But we are on a spot—unless we develop replacements we'll be in a tight situation the rest of the season."

Notre Dame just nosed out Purdue and Georgia Tech, winning both games on field goals. Some observers feel Layden's club is tottering on the edge of diving into the tied or defeated division. But Notre Dame gridiron history is crammed with surprises and Layden's coaching ability and Irish spirit—reserves or no reserves—will give SMU a busy afternoon.

The only previous time the teams have met was in 1930—in Notre Dame's opening game of a season in which they went on to a second straight national title. Within the first five minutes each team had scored seven points. From then on it was a hectic battle with the Irish winning 20-14.

SMU probably will stick to that old southwest custom of filling the air with leather inasmuch as Notre Dame allowed two opponents to complete 13 and 28 passes

DO YOU WANT ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION for only $1.50?

HERE'S THE WAY many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and sudden cold snaps.

When winter gets down to real business, they add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50!

You may need a little more or less, depending on the condition and capacity of your car radiator and the severity of winter in your neighborhood. But the efficiency of "Zerone" will save you real money. "Zerone" prevents rust and corrosion, gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. Protect your car with "Zerone" this very day! And remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

Aiken thought the situation was ripe for play 37, he would order the sub wearing No. 37 to warm up in front of the bench until the field quarterback had caught the signal and called accordingly.

THE kind-hearted bookies are suggesting that a "chunk of that Northwestern" will pay dividends Saturday. But it looks now like that Ohio State will get the big money play. Can't blame 'em after the 'cats' defeat by Oklahoma.

It was typical of the fairest, finest, most sporting city in the world, and one of its finest mayors, that Lou Gehrig should be appointed as a city parole commissioner. Mayor LaGuardia is right in saying that Gehrig "will be an inspiration to boys who have got into trouble." There is just one more thing that could be done; should be done. Joe E. Brown, the motion picture actor, brought it up during the World series. Joe thought, and we're sure the baseball people will agree, that Lou should be voted into the baseball Hall of Fame immediately.

Bucs Ripe for Change, But Frisch Keeps Mum.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — The punchless Pirates who wandered from second down to sixth place in the National League this year may be in for an overhauling—but their new boss won't admit it.

Frankie Frisch, the erstwhile Fordham flash who succeeds Harold "Pie" Traynor in the driver's seat, came to Pittsburgh yesterday for a three-day discussion with President Bill Benswanger. But all they accomplished the first day was signing the old "Flying Dutchman" Honus Wagner as coach for another year.

HALL, BENTON OF RAMS TOP PRO LOOP FIGURES

CLEVELAND —(AP)— National football league figures showed today that Parker Hall, Cleveland Rams' halfback, still leads in passing efficiency, with 41 completions in 75 attempts, for a gain of 544 yards. Jim Benton, Cleveland end, tops the league in touchdowns with six.

RETAINS SOUTHWORTH

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—Manager Billy Southworth of the Rochester baseball club of the International League didn't take long studying his 1940 contract at his Columbus, O., home. The club announced today he had signed for next season.

Texans Boast 38-Game String

Hull-Daisetta High Unbeaten Since Fall of 1935.

HULL-DAISETTA, Texas—(AP)—You couldn't buy a dying man a drink of water today in Hull and Daisetta, next-door neighbor oil field towns in deep south Texas.

The Hull-Daisetta football team which the two communities share, went out to meet the ancient enemy at Liberty. The boys had at stake a delicate victory record that has withstood 38 teams and a switch in coaches and coaching strategy. So nobody wanted to miss the fun.

Back in 1935, the Bobcats dropped a game to Cleveland, Texas, high, and then won the next two games, the last of the season. They've been winning ever since.

The boys—most of them sons of strapping oil field workers—have won the regional class A title of the Texas interscholastic league three straight years. Scoring 942 points to the enemy's 101.

In all but three games in two years, the Bobcats have driven to a touchdown the first time they got their hands on the ball.

ANGERED BY SCALPING, CLARK RELEASES SIX

NEW YORK—(INS)—Angered by the terrific scalping his Brooklyn Dodgers took Sunday at the hands of Washington, Coach Potsy Clark today threatened more dismissals after releasing six gridders. Backed by Owner Dan Topping, Clark announced: "We'll have no player on this team who can't and won't play football."

Several deals are being considered, it was learned. Those released were George Lenc and Bill Reissig, ends; Ed Merlin and Gus Zarnas, guards; Stan Kosel and Jim Neill, backs.

START LONG TREK

NEW YORK —(INS)— Fordham was headed on one of its longest gridiron journeys today—for New Orleans to play Tulane on Saturday. A workout was planned at Atlanta this afternoon.

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

IROQUOIS ENDS 'TORTURE TRIP'

Ship Germans Said Would Be Sunk Reaches New York With 788 Aboard.

ship of horrors, this was it. The storm was so bad that some of the officers said they expected the top of the boat to blow off. Everyone was ill. Then, they started searching our baggage and wouldn't say what for.

"They made us go into the holds —dark, dirty holds—to identify our trunks. Some of us were so sick we couldn't go. When we told them we couldn't go, they told us they would smash our trunks open."

Several passengers agreed the most frightening of the speculations aboard ship was that a time bomb had been secreted somewhere.

Even two United States destroyers which met the 394-foot ship Monday to form a convoy on orders of the White House caused alarm at first, some passengers rushing to the conclusion that they were hostile vessels.

The master of the Iroquois, Captain E. A. Chelton, said he was advised by Washington last Thursday of an extraordinary message from Berlin which warned that the ship would be sunk near the American coast under circumstances similar to those surrounding the destruction of the British liner Athenia. The Germans have contended the British, not they, were responsible for that disaster.

The warning seemed incredible, the captain said, "but I was told I had to believe it until it was proved otherwise."

That meant six days of awful suspense.

The first thing I did," he said, "was to call the heads of the (ship) departments together and tell them about it, instructing them at the same time not to speak to the passengers about it.

"Then I had the ship searched for radios—(in case someone aboard might be signaling marauding craft). We took off radio antennae and removed tubes from several short-wave sets the crew had. The passengers did not have radios.

"Of course the crew knew, and the passengers too, that there was something up, but they didn't know what.

"On Sunday morning when the cutter came up, I told the passengers part of what had happened. I said I had information there would be other ships sunk as was the Athenia, but I didn't mention the Iroquois. The next day two U. S. destroyers came up, and then I gathered the passengers in the lounge and announced specifically what my information was. They all cheered.

"I had the ship searched every day until we got here," the captain said, "but found absolutely nothing."

CAFE CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

NEW ORLEANS—(U.P.)—A self-confident restaurnat owner who advertises "If not satisfied, tear up the check," was given a jolt in his complacency by a large group of business men who arose from a table and scattered pieces of their checks over the floor, meanwhile looking very angry and displeased. It turned out to be a jest, however.

SEWAGE PLANT EFFICIENCY HITS 100 PER CENT

Turner Reports Entire Volume Given Full Treatment in September.

Mansfield's sewage treatment plant operated at 100 per cent efficiency during September in the volume of sewage treated, Plant Superintendent James R. Turner said today.

Turner's report showed that the entire volume of 80 million gallons entering the plant last month was given full treatment. During August 96 per cent of the load was fully treated while the figure for September of last year was 51 per cent.

The report also showed that sewage given full treatment had a purification percentage of 92.5 per cent, the same as was reported for the month previous.

Tops 1938 Figure.

The percentage of purification was 11 per cent better than the same figure for September, 1938.

Total cost of operating the plant last month was $2,160 with the cost per million gallons dropping from $28.20 in August to $26.75 in September.

Turner said that gas production totaled nearly two million cubic feet last month and had it been used to generate electricity, 73 per cent of the power bill of $900 for the month could have been saved.

He also reported that a total of 925,000 gallons of sludge were on hand and could not be dried due to the lack of sludge drying equipment. Purchase of additional equipment is now under consideration in council.

TAUNTS POLICE, GETS ARRESTED

BROOKLINE, Mass.—(U.P.)—Unable to leave well enough alone, a man called police headquarters to taunt officers for their inability to solve a $35 robbery at a bowling alley.

Police traced the call and arrested the man who called, Philip Growley, 30, and charged him with the crime. Crowley, an employe of the bowling alley, pleaded guilty to larceny and burglary, and was held for the grand jury.

New Hats For Highway Patrol

Here's what the well dressed State Highway patrolman will be wearing in the future when you see him on the highway or on special duty. Corporal C. F. Strayer of the Mansfield patrol sub-station is shown wearing one of the new campaign hats recently added to the patrolmen's uniform. The new headpiece is slate gray color, with wide brims. It replaces the dark gray caps worn in the past and similar to those worn by Pennsylvania state troopers. Corporal Strayer and Patrolman J. A. Gosling are the only officers at the station to receive their new hats. The others are expected to be equipped within the next week.

TOO HELPFUL

Cowboy Breaks Pelvis Aiding Stranded Motorists.

PORTERVILLE, Cal.—(U.P.)—The good samaritan business is in dispute with Cowboy Robert Gilbert at the present time.

He encountered two stranded motorists in the mountains with their auto bogged in a stream. He attached his lariat to the car, gave his horse the heave-to sign, to which the animal responded with such hearty good will that the saddle cinch broke, and Gilbert landed on the rocks in mid-stream with a broken pelvis.

ORIGIN MYSTERY

Owns Flag Believed Made In Revolutionary Period.

PASCO, Wash.—(U.P.)—Mrs. H. A. Dowd owns a flag with 13 five-pointed stars and seven stripes of alternate red and white that is believed to have been made in the Revolutionary war period.

The flag, made of homespun woolen bunting, was handed down to Mrs. Dowd by her father, Allen Richal of Weston, Ore. Mrs. Dowd said the ensign had belonged to Richal as long as she remembered.

Richal was extremely proud of the flag, Mrs. Dowd said, and displayed it on every occasion. However, he died before telling her what he knew about its history, so its origin is a mystery.

Breach Healed, Roosevelt and Farley to Join for '40

POSTMASTERS SEE FOES AS FRIENDS AGAIN

President's Praise of 'Jim' Indicates Friendship's to Be Renewed Again.

(UP Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—The political partnership of Roosevelt, Farley & company, which was believed to be dissolving a few short months ago, is doing business as usual today and expects a boom year in 1940.

Such differences as existed between the president and the postmaster general were substantially disposed of last month after Farley returned from a European vacation.

Public demonstration that the two friends of 1932 and 1936 are likely to be in partnership next year, too, came yesterday when Mr. Roosevelt addressed 5,000 or so postmasters in the south grounds of the White House. The post office employes are here for their annual convention. The president made his brief speech an occasion for a warm and pointed tribute to Farley and he reminded the assembly that when "Jim" runs a convention it usually is a success.

"Your friend and mine," was Mr. Roosevelt's description of Farley.

"Today," he said, "we may all share in the pride which by every right and token should thrill Jim Farley's kindly heart. He is doing a grand job."

First hand reports of that speech will be carried to every local political headquarters in the land as the post office employes return to their homes. It appears to be a clear and definite hint to the anti-third term and other Democratic elements unfriendly to Mr. Roosevelt that Farley is more likely to be against them than with them in next year's presidential wars.

Farley is keeping his own counsel about the desirability of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt. But it may be said on reasonably good authority that Farley now probably is of a mind to help the president remain in the White House if he cares to be there for another four years. That definitely did not appear to be the situation a few months ago when the postmaster general spoke freely to his intimates of the coolness which had arisen between himself and the president. He was counted then among those who might join a 1940 stop-Roosevelt movement.

CALL WITNESSES

Ashland Grand Jurors to Probe 14 Witnesses Friday.

ASHLAND—Called into a special session here this Friday, members of the Ashland county grand jury will investigate 11 cases and will examine 14 witnesses, it was stated here by A. Ross Siverling, prosecuting attorney.

The session has been called mostly to investigate the case of Ray Reinhardt, former manager of the local branch of the Mansfield Provident company, now being held in the Ashland county jail in lieu of $4,000 bond, charged on five counts with forgery and embezzlement of funds over $8,000, Siverling said.

Among the cases which will be considered by the jury will be the charges of forgery against Milton Graham, of Kentucky and the charge of issuing a check with sufficient funds, against M. E. Hoifling of Urichsville.

Son Reprimanded, Mother Objects, Lands In Court

Mrs. Leona Weaver, colored of Mansfield didn't like the way teachers at Bushnell school reprimanded her eight-year-old son so she went to school and told them about it, and not too kindly.

But if she does it again, it will cost her a six-month term in the Toledo workhouse, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson decided today.

Brought into court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her son and using abusive language at the school, Mrs. Weaver was given the suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years by Judge Anderson.

JUDGE NAMED

ASHLAND—Judge H. E. Gibbison of common pleas court here was named a member of the Samaritan hospital board here at a meeting of the hospital trustees it has been announced.

At the same meeting, C. D. Hubler was named to the post of vice president, to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Attorney M. V. Semple.

HIGHLIGHTS OF CHAMBERLAIN'S SPEECH, REPLYING TO HITLER

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Highlights of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech today:

Hitler's proposals for security are based upon recognition of his conquests.

It would be impossible for Britain to accept any such basis without forfeiting her honor.

Acts, not words alone, must be forthcoming before we and France would be justified in ceasing to wage war to the utmost of our strength.

The German government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of her desire for peace by definite acts . . . or we must persevere in our duty to the end. It is for Germany to make her choice.

It is no longer possible to rely upon the unsupported word of the present German government.

No effective remedy can be found for the world's ills that does not take into account the just claims of all countries.

Whatever may be the issue of the present struggle . . . the world will not be the same world we have known before.

In a modern war between great powers, victor and vanquished must alike suffer a cruel loss, but surrender to wrong-doing would spell extinction of all hope.

We seek no material advantage for ourselves.

All peoples of Europe, including the people of Germany, long for peace. . . .

The peace which we are determined to secure must be a real and settled peace, not an uneasy truce interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats.

What stands in the way of such a peace? It is the German government alone.

MYSTERY DEATH QUIZ CONTINUES

Officers Extend Inquiry Into Loudonville Case, Sheriff Believes Man Fell.

issued a death certificate and gave the family permission to bury the body this afternoon. Funeral services were held at the Gilbert funeral home and burial was in Loudonville cemetery.

The death certificate said death was due to a "blow on the head, from an unknown source."

Sheriff Hammond was continuing his investigation today.

"It's one of those cases that could be one thing as easily as another and nothing to indicate which," he said. "Personally, I'm inclined to think it was an accident and that the man fell in the kitchen and cut his head on some object. But we are continuing the investigation."

Marshall Conrad said that he had been devoting his efforts to finding a motive for violence, but that "there was absolutely nothing to go on."

Conrad said that fingerprints and pictures of the two rooms of the house had been taken Tuesday night by E. C. Fuller, Mansfield police identification officer.

Fuller said that he had not been called until eight hours after the body of Sprang had been found, and that by that time a number of persons had been in the house and that the fingerprints taken would have little value.

Curnutt, Dayton, southwest district director. All but Mrs. Hurst have been serving in office for which they have been nominated.

Fifty members of Mansfield P. T. A. groups are attending sessions of the conventions which close tomorrow. Convention leaders predicted that the P. T. A. would follow the lead of a number of other organizations in publicly opposing the Bigelow $50-a-month old age pension law.

REPORT CAPTURE

British Claim Navy Seized Big German Steamer.

LONDON—(AP)—The British navy was reported today to have captured the 13,615-ton German steamer Cap Norte.

The report, issued by the British Press association, said the Cap Norte, a ship in trade between Germany and South America, had sailed from the Brazilian port of Pernambuco, Sept. 17.

The capture of the Cap Norte had been hinted in yesterday's remarks by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons.

Churchill related that during the period from Sept. 24 to Oct. 9, Great Britain had a favorable balance of 7,806 tons of shipping comparing her seizures with her losses from German submarine attacks.

800 Mansfielders Will Hear Famed Chorus Tomorrow

More than 800 Mansfield music lovers will have the opportunity to hear and see "in person" the Don Cossack chorus tomorrow night when the Civic Music association presents the first of three numbers on its 1939-40 calendar.

In addition to the Mansfield members of the association, members from other cities in the state are expected to fill the Senior High school auditorium for the concert.

The chorus of 35 exiled Russians, who were wards of the League of Nations for a number of months after the last futile stand of White Russians, will be presented at 8:15 p. m.

With the exception of some liturgical music, the Cossacks sing songs that have never been written on paper, but which have endured from one generation to another by being passed along vocally. As the songs and music of the Cossacks has been forbidden in present day Russia, the concerts of the Don Cossack group is the only way of preserving much of this traditional music.

VETS TO HEAR REPORTS

Members of Luther Swigart chapter, Rainbow association, will meet tonight at the club rooms in Memorial building to give reports on the sale of tickets for the annual Rainbow dance which will be held at the American Legion ballroom Nov. 4.

Housewives Find Food Costs Less Last Week, U. S. Survey Shows.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The American housewife saved three-quarters of one per cent on her grocery budget last week as food prices continued to react from the sudden rise at the start of the war.

Secretary Perkins reported the average retail decline today as shown by the Bureau of Labor Statistics survey for the week ending Oct. 10.

JUST IN TIME

Allocation Arrives, Enables County to Pay Road Workers.

An allocation of $11,000 in automobile license fees today enabled the county road department to pay its workers who had been threatened again with a "payless payday."

It was the second time in recent weeks that state funds have arrived just in time to meet the road department's payroll.

The state funds were a part of a $968,000 allocation made to counties from license fees collected May 31. The distribution was made under the five per cent evaluation act.

Heavy demands on the county road fund for repair work and delays in distributing state money have combined to keep the county road department "broke" most of this year.

WATCH FOR IT STARTING OCT. 29th . . YOUR CARRIER BOY WILL TAKE YOUR ORDER

---Lightning-like "breaks" in the news, coming so fast they require intensive coverage every day.

---An ever-growing demand from readers for news protection on Sundays.

For these two reasons, The News-Journal today announces that it will establish a Sunday paper, starting October 29.

Every newspaper has certain definite, strict obligations to the community in which it is published. Chief of these is to provide its readers with THE LATEST NEWS as quickly as it is possible to give it to them.

In these troubled times, that job is not completely done when there is a Saturday-to-Monday lapse in publication days.

Mansfield has grown to a size where a good Sunday newspaper is needed---Mansfield is a "news-hungry" community, as evidenced by the six-day circulation of The News-Journal.

The news is breaking fast --- the new Sunday News-Journal will bring you the latest, hot off the presses, early Sunday morning.

News-Journal readers have shown in more ways than one that they want a Sunday paper --- one indication of that is the present six day per week circulation of The News-Journal is greater than ever obtained by any Mansfield newspaper.

The new Sunday News-Journal will provide ample news coverage on Sunday --- local news, state and world news, tersely written, sharply edited.

We hope you'll like it.

We hope you'll pardon us for saying it, but we think News-Journal readers have been reading a GOOD newspaper six days a week.

Now we're going to give them a Sunday newspaper, with the latest available local, national and foreign news---and we're going to do our best to make it every bit as good as the daily paper (better, if we can).

For one thing, there'll be an eight-page colored comic section, with the nation's most popular comic characters. For another thing, the cost of the new Sunday paper --- (the first one will be published October 29th) will be only three cents.

Despite the fact that newspaper publishing costs are increasing daily, and the printing of a Sunday edition will bring considerable added expense, The News-Journal will, however, sell this new service at the regular daily price of 3c a copy.

And you, Mr. and Mrs. Subscriber, who have been paying 18 cents for The News-Journal six days a week can now have the paper SEVEN days a week for just 3 cents more--- for 21 cents a week.

The price for the six days (Monday to Saturday, inclusive) will remain the same --- 18c a week. Single copies of the Sunday edition may be obtained from newsstands and newsboys at 3c a copy.

There'll be features galore --- some familiar ones, now appearing in the daily paper, and some brand new ones, that you'll soon list among your favorites.

Remember --- a NEWSY Sunday News-Journal, starting Sunday, October 29, for only 3 cents.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12 1939.

The Russian bear now growls gently and reaches his claws westward.

From the way the president's trees have been dying at Poughkeepsie, it looks as if he has a dust bowl of his own.

War's the biggest of all nuisances. George Bernard Shaw complains that "whatever our work in life may be, we're ordered to stop doing it and stand by."

Discovery Day

IF SOME new Columbus were setting out again to find new worlds, he would certainly go westward as Christopher did. And this time he would do it not on a "hunch," but on positive knowledge.

He wouldn't be looking for Asia now. He would have his eye out for the great double continent that occupies the Western Hemisphere in such perfect symmetry and such beautiful and rich exclusiveness, and he would aim to settle down and stay there.

To tell the simple truth, we Americans ourselves, North and South and amidships, are really just getting a good slant on this noble hemisphere and beginning to use it in the way which Destiny apparently intended. Here is a vast, varied, magnificent refuge from the Old World, with its eternal feuds and wars and its war-born poverty We don't half appreciate our blessedness.

On this new Columbus day, let's all discover America.

Sweeter Music

PAUL WHITEMAN, who should know if anybody does, says "swing" is waning. You can still hear it and see young people dancing to it, and vestiges of it may survive for a long time, but as a popular fad it seems to be on the way out.

The reason he gives is interesting. College students, he says, make or break dance styles, and they no longer seem to care for swing. They regard it as childish, as "high school stuff." The collegians are incurably romantic, he explains, and swing hasn't ever really fitted their temperaments. What they want is the "soft light and sweet music type of dancing."

That for the outsiders who have thought of the current generation of students as hard and sophisticated!

Middle-aged people mostly welcome the lapse of swing and the recent reappearance, in popular programs, of what they regard as "real music." Maybe we are due for a new wave of sweetness and sentiment in the dance halls and on the radio. It might be, too, a refuge from the hardness of a warring world.

U. S. of Europe

THOMAS MANN, the famous German author, now an American, says the only answer to Old World problems is for Europe to follow the American example. If it doesn't it will die.

And what is "the American example"? Morally it is tolerance. Politically it is organized co-operation.

Here in America we have all the races represented in Europe, and also most of the European problems, except for the crowdedness and lack of material resources over there. The human problem, the problem of people of different race, language, religion and politics getting along amicably together, is the same.

It would be easier, though, to accomplish such a miracle in Europe if the races over there were mixed up more thoroughly, as they are here. Individuals of varied races can usually get along together. The more they are bunched and segregated, the harder it is.

Workless Youth

IT IS SAID that most American boys today grow up without working. That is, without experience of hard or systematic work. This is probably true generally of boys not brought up on farms, and represents a great change from the old American tradition.

It is a very unfortunate situation, says Dr. Luther Gulick, addressing a congress of parents and teachers. Industrial development and business life produce homes "without an understanding of work as a career and without an appreciation of the value of money." Children who have never done any hard or systematic work or earned any money in their formative years have missed something vital in their education.

He suggests that parents compensate for this lack in the home by establishing a regular routine of chores, and by showing appreciation of craftsmanship in anything the children may do.

Summer vacations provide opportunities for remedying this lack, he says. And where young employes have had no "work experience" an understanding employer can help to bridge the gap.

War Feeling

A CURRENT SAMPLING of public opinion in this country shows that 95 per cent of our people are opposed to our going to war.

The question was, "Should we declare war and send our army and navy abroad to fight Germany?" So expressed, perhaps we should be surprised that even one American out of 20 is rarin' to fight.

How sentiment will go as the war proceeds is another question. There are so many factors to influence emotion and judgment. If Hitler plunges ahead ruthlessly after the Allies' rejection of his dubious peace proposals, if there are shocking depredations by land and sea, if neutrals are killed and American interests greatly damaged, and if the democracies begin to weaken as they did in 1917, a new poll may show a very different result.

Meanwhile we stand pat in our isolation, strengthen our defenses and hope for the best.

"The best way to keep out of war," says Col. Frederick Palmer, veteran war correspondent and historian, "is to forge a sword so powerful that, if we have to draw it at all, it will be to lay it on the council table as a card of force, which is the only card that counts in Europe at present."

Cheer up. The stars are closer than we've supposed. An astronomer assures us that the nearest star (Alpha Centauri, usually referred to as Alpha Centauri) is only 12,000,000,000,000 miles away, instead of 25,000,000,000,000

A Moscow paper says war against Hitler is "folly." Everybody should just let him have as much of the earth as Stalin doesn't want.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—What a waterfront New York has . . . One hundred and thirty-nine steamship companies dock here . . . This helps explain the presence of so many squat, ugly tugs in the harbor . . . When one of the big liners, say the Queen Mary, docks here, twelve tugs are required to warp her into her berth . . . For this service each tug is paid $35 . . . That makes $420 just for being shoved into a pier.

Speaking of skippers, there's Captain David William Bone, boss of the Transylvania, flagship of the Anchor line . . . Makes regular passages between New York and Glasgow . . . Captain Bone is well liked in these quarters, and counts among his intimate friends such authorities as William McFee and Christopher Morley . . . One of Great Britain's most famous etchers, Muirhead Bone, is his brother . . . But the most fascinating item I know about him is this: he was a shipmate with—Joseph Conrad.

All the big passenger liners put into sumptuous piers on the Hudson, or west side, of the Manhattan waterfront. . . . The freighters cling to the East Side. . . . A few freighters and fruit lines cater to an adventurous sort of passenger trade—people who want to "slum it" on the high seas, but the freighter business is largely based on bananas, oil, hemp, cocoa, and coffee.

An interesting coincidence, if it IS a coincidence—is the alignment of the major foreign steamship lines along the Hudson piers. . . . The British and the French lines are side by side, just as they are, politically, in Europe, while a few steps away, side by side, are the German and Italian lines.

All the big liners of these companies are first-rate ships, big, roomy, fast, and modern. . . . But any newspaper man will admit that the Italian liners—the Conti de Savoia, the Conti Grande—are the most interesting and picturesque. . . . I don't know what it is, but somehow, they seem livelier, and more colorful. . . . Perhaps it is their snow white decks and their smokestacks of Venetian red and emerald green.

Some people live here a lifetime without realizing that the rivers and the harbor surrounding New York are dotted with scores of islands, all of which play a definite part in the city's life. Every one knows of Ellis island, where the immigration authorities check arrivals from Europe, but very few could identify, say, Hart island, where paupers are buried, and where a large reformatory prison is located.

City island is the seat of a ship-building industry. . . . Coney Island, technically, is not an island. It is a prolongation of Brooklyn. . . . Ward's island used to contain Potter's Field, but it is now the site of a great insane asylum. . . . Welfare island recently became a great hospital center, but formerly—and this means only a few years back—it was a prison which more nearly rivalled medieval times in degeneracy than anything in the United States. . . . One of the inmates made a habit of practicing surgery with a rusty pocket knife. The waterfront has many islands with strange, picturesque names, such as Chimney Sweeps island, Big Tom island, Pea island, and Huckleberry island. But they mean little and are as grains of sand to the larger islands and to Manhattan.

TODAY IN HISTORY

October 12—Christopher Columbus discovered America on Oct. 12, 1492

Daily Bible Thought

Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it to Baruch the scribe, the son of Neriah, who wrote therein from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire: and there were added besides unto them many like words.—Jer 36:32.

TOADSTOOL, OR MUSHROOM, WHICH?

Our 'Safety Zone' Problems

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — All international law authorities seem to be against it, but the United States and its Pan-American associates probably can expect belligerents to observe—within limitations—the 300-mile band of "territorial water" established as a safety zone.

The trouble with extended territorial waters is, however, that in addition to the privileges involved, they also impose obligations upon the nation that sets out to establish them.

A "territorial water," in international law, is a strip of water over which a country has full police and maritime control. "Peaceful commerce" is entitled to use of the water.

For generations, "territorial water" usually has referred to the three-mile belt of water extending out from a nation's shore. Warships of a belligerent nation may enter that water only under the strictest regulations. If a nation chooses, it may exclude warships altogether from its "territorial waters" and any that enter will either be sunk or seized, if the neutral nation has the power to do that.

We Wish To Be Respected As A Neutral.

THEREIN lies the hitch. A neutral nation MUST make belligerent ships stay out of territorial waters if it wishes to be respected as a neutral. Just now we very much wish to be. Therefore we must undertake a patrol to see that British and French warships as well as German submarines stay out of our territorial waters.

If a belligerent submarine or surface warship should steal inside the territorial waters and put down a couple of merchant vessels, we might be made to pay for the loss. It would make this country very angry to have to pay for half a dozen British merchant ships sunk by German submarines inside our territorial waters.

Again, it is likely that both sides would respect our greatly enlarged strip of territorial water, after some preliminary grumbling, simply because our navy could fairly well enforce it.

But even more questions arise. Britain is arming her merchant vessels. Germany has declared that they must be treated just like warships because in a gun-for-gun battle a big merchant ship can whip a submarine. If we set out to be "strictly" neutral, we may have to agree with Germany that armed merchantmen are warships, so far as privileges in territorial waters are concerned. Then we would be obliged to keep armed British merchant ships out of our territorial waters.

We've Got To Make Up Our Minds.

INCIDENTALLY, that latter is a question which is coming up to hit us in the face already. A ship of war cannot remain in U. S. harbors or territorial waters more than 24 hours under present custom and law. Moreover, it cannot take on a cargo of supplies. It may get only fuel and supplies enough to get back to its nearest home port.

This country let that question dangle undecided until 1916 in the last World war. Now three of the foremost authorities on international law say that an armed merchant vessel is a ship of war and loses many of its privileges as a merchant vessel, including that of the right to warning before being sunk.

Those three are Henry M. Borchard of Yale, Charles C. Hyde of Columbia, and John Bassett Moore, former undersecretary of state.

Borchard and Hyde have recommended flatly that the U. S. close its harbors to armed merchant vessels. Undoubtedly diplomatic exchanges are flying thick and fast at this very moment between Washington on one end and London and Berlin on the other as to what our duties and obligations are.

Listen, World!

The Blind Weaver.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a little rug in my room. Not much to look at. Passing by, you might see only a bit of careless weaving. But, as you look at it more carefully, you're puzzled.

There's something about this strip of woven stuff that's unlike any rug you've ever known. The color, f'rinstance. You'd thought at first that it was dull. But now you see it's full of rich, strong hues—scarlet, as brave as hope . . . and blue, like faith . . . and green that runs all through it like an April laugh . . . and scores of other tints, like brief, bright dreams. Plenty of color, yes. And yet it's broken . . . goes flashing, fading, without seeming reason through the warp's plain grey.

And there's a pattern—some scattered bits of noble, old design. But they, too, come and go without a plan. As though one sang, then stopped . . . battled, and failed . . . laughed, wept . . . or drifted, aimless, with indifferent heart. Queer weaving, this! This broken color . . . uneven margin . . . planless plan . . . you might not think they'd make a lovely whole, and yet they do! For some odd reason, this rug seems alive! There's something in it all that grips the heart—that stirs you deeper than the greatest art.

You'd like to find the reason? It's not hard to find.

THE ONE WHO WOVE WAS BLIND.

This rug's not just a strip of woven wool, it's one man's life.

All day the weaver shot and sat his thread—bright gold and crimson shuttling through the brown and gray. He had a chart and numbered pegs by which he found his way. So, day by day, through all his shadowed years, through hope and failure, ecstacy and tears, he wove. And as he wove, he prayed. A simple prayer, I think . . . something like this:

"Dear Father, help me!
"Let there somehow be
"The mark of beauty
"On this thing
"I cannot see!
"And if my fingers
"Fail your plan to find—
"Forgive me, Father,
"For you know
"I'm blind!"

So, I think he prayed. And sometimes Beauty came. Those gleams that run like laughter, courage, hope! But sometimes, he grew bitter at it all . . . weary, discouraged . . . let the shuttle fall or, railing at the Fate which kept him barred, his hands would slip—the patterns would be marred.

Yet, in the end—in spite of all the times when things went wrong—each blundering stitch and broken tint was found to blend, like woven music, in one perfect song.

How do I know the prayer the weaver prayed? Because we too are weavers, you and I . . . and we too work in darkness all our lives. Blindly we take our seats before the loom . . . blindly we labor till our shift is done. And often turn away, heartsick—because the dream has gone astray. And yet—I think He knows how hard we try! I think His face is gentle when we cry—

"Oh Father, help us—
"May there somehow be
"The mark of Beauty
"On this thing
"We cannot see—
"And if our fingers
"Fail your plan to find—
"Forgive us, Father,
"For you know
"We're blind!"

Ohio Anecdotes

Commemorative Stamp.

The federal postal department participated in celebrating the 150th birthday of the Northwest Territory in July, 1936, by issuing a special 3-cent stamp.

The ordinance of 1787, passed by congress July 13, rivals the importance of the famous Magna Carta in that for the first time is provided that men were free and equal within the commonwealth, which today is composed of five states and part of a sixth.

Appropriately, the first stamps were placed on sale in Marietta, the oldest continuing town in Ohio, originally called Campus Martius.

Since Ohio became a state, separating from the territory, in 1803, it has risen to rank fourth in population with its 6,707,000 persons.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—They don't know it, but the GOP leaders who want congress to remain in session after disposing of the neutrality bill will get considerable secret support in the inner White House circle—although for an entirely different reason.

The Republicans want to stick around in order to keep a watchful eye on Roosevelt's international operations. But the New Dealers want congress to stay on the job to head off an expected business slump. They are privately convinced the country is headed for another recession in January.

So far there has been no sign that the president intends to follow this advice. But sub rosa some of his advisers are filled with misgivings for the economic future.

Reason for their pessimism is the fear that the current boom, which has sent indexes skyward and brought bullish pronouncements from some administration politicos, is destined shortly to collapse like a hot-air balloon. The inner circle's confidential analyses show no cause for hurrahs. Instead they reveal a far-from-rosy background situation, as follows:

First, the strong production upturn of the last six weeks is largely an "inventory bulge"; that is, production to increase stocks of goods on hand, induced by expectation of war orders and by fear of cost increases as a result of the war. Example: In one 10-day period last month, textile makers received sufficient orders to keep factories going full blast for four weeks.

Second, there has been very little increase in consumer buying, and most of this also was caused by war fears; in other words, goods were bought for reserve purposes.

Third, despite the marked improvement in manufacturing, the unemployment situation continues grimly unchanged, with not less than 9,000,000 workers still idle and demands on the slashed WPA as urgent as ever.

If the war should end, the New Dealers are warning Roosevelt, or even if it continues without belligerent orders materializing as quickly or in as large volume as expected, a repetition of the 1937 crash is inevitable—that is, unless Roosevelt keeps congress in session to adopt preventive measures. By "preventive measures" they mean more spending.

SOS Program.

Following is the rescue program they are urging in inner councils:

1. Revival of the lending bill, which was defeated by the house last session after being passed by the senate. This would stimulate new utility construction and modernization of railway equipment. Although the railroads have been buying some equipment of late, there is room for a great deal more. The utilities are doing comparatively little new building, although experts estimate there is need for at least $500,000,000 worth of expansion a year.

2. Further liberalization of the old-age pension system. This was blocked last year by Secretary Morgenthau and Chairman Altmeyer of the social security board. The New Dealers contend that another $250,000,000 could be expended through this channel without adding a cent to social security taxes.

3. A large-scale national defense program, aimed at building up a two-ocean navy, expanding the army and air corps, and developing adequate anti-aircraft and motorized equipment.

Fighting Words.

Following Alf Landon's nomination of Senator Arthur Capper as Kansas' 1940 presidential choice, a friend who encountered the gentle, kindly veteran greeted him mischeviously: "How do you do, Mr. President?"

"Smile when you say that, pardner," retorted Capper with mock severity. "Them's fighting words where I come from."

Stuck.

The partition of Poland has a direct financial effect on the U. S. government that is not generally realized. The Export-Import bank has a $3,000,000 investment in Poland which may never be repaid.

The original amount of the credit was six million, approved Nov. 3, 1938, on application of the Bank Gospodartswa Krajowego of Warsaw. Only about half of this loan was actually paid out—$2,079,450 on a cotton export credit, and $834,119 on the copper exports.

Though the loans were only for nine months, they were granted only last spring and are not yet due. Question: When they are due, who will pay—Hitler, Stalin, or the departed government of Poland?

Merry-Go-Round.

Representative Frank Havenner of San Francisco is setting a precedent this session. He is the first congressman to run for mayor of a metropolitan city and to wage his campaign from Washington. Although urged by his managers to hurry back, Havenner considers the neutrality issue so important that he is remaining in the capitol and making his race through the mails and radio A militant liberal, Havenner is a one-time reporter and ex-secretary of Senator Hiram Johnson . . . Robert Lucas, executive director of the Republican National committee under Hoover, is managing the campaign of King Swope, G. O. P. candidate for governor of Kentucky. Lucas' return to the political arena has lent color to inside reports that next year he plans to run against Representative Emmet O'Neal, anti-New Deal Democrat. . . . The European war and the neutrality fight have been a setback to Franklyn Waltman, dynamic publicity chief of the Republican National committee. He had elaborate plans for a big anti-New Deal publicity drive this fall, had to shelve it for lack of public interest.

Tall Tale of REA.

One pleasure enjoyed by officials of the Rural Electrification administration is the quaint tales that come in from farmers participating in the power program.

Everyone has read about the Kentucky hen that celebrated the installation of REA electricity in her roost by laying an egg shaped like a light bulb. This egg is displayed in the REA's exhibit at the New York World's fair.

Another whopper was the story of the discovery of gold on an REA project in California. Latest is about a frog that outleaped the celebrated jumper in Mark Twain's tale.

Unlike the strange-shaped egg, however, the frog cannot be produced to bear out the story of his prowess. He is dead. He was electrocuted when he sprang 25 feet in the air and landed on a transformer, causing a short circuit that disrupted service for miles around on an REA power line south of St. Paul, Minn.

A Farmer's Diary

The Neighbor's Hop Vine.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY NEIGHBOR down the road had a hop vine that protected the western window of her kitchen. Thick clusters of hops adorned the thrifty stalk. Several times I admired its sturdy growth and the wiry prickly branches. Today I missed that thick green covering at the window.

"Why did you take it down?" I inquired.

"Oh," she said, "we'd had it there all summer, and when the days get short and cloudy we need more light."

When I was but a lad I remember we had hop vines along the northern border of our fertile garden. Every spring my father cut three oak saplings, dragged them from the woods with a team, to where the hops were growing. We dug three deep holes. Then one brother held the base with a piece of plank while father and another boy raised up the pole until it dropped in with a heavy thud.

As one held it straight the other tamped some soil and rock about it until it was firmly planted. These three poles were the arbors for our hops, and within six weeks tender, graceful, curving necks and plumelike tips would reach the very top and coil wilfully above, seeking more support.

By late summer, each pole was a tall, straight pillar of dark green leaves, studded with soft, light green clusters of scaly fruit. When autumn came, we cut down the poles and plucked from the wiry tangle bushels of hops which we stored for winter use. Every neighbor had his store of hops, as well as we.

When mother baked, she used to cook some hops and pour the broth into her yeast, to make it livelier. I remember what a peculiar greenish pleasant odor emanated from the kettle.

When older people had rheumatism and swelling joints a little pillow filled with hops was heated and placed about the affected parts. If throats were swollen, the familiar bag of heated hops was constantly applied, until the patient improved or got worse, when more drastic measures were considered necessary.

If we got heavy colds from wet feet after fishing through the ice, and croup developed hops boiled in lard was the usual medicine. It made a splendid emetic for sleepless boys. The cure, I always felt, was much more painful than the disease, but it was not our part to complain, or refuse our portion. Hops and lard was the accepted remedy, and still is among the elder folk of that neighborhood.

HOLD GRADE JOB WOULD EXHAUST FUND FOR ROADS

Commissioners Explain County Stand on Proposed W. 4th Crossing Project.

With the proposed $600,000 grade elimination west of Mansfield apparently sidetracked for at least another year, county commissioners explained today that to meet the demand of the state highway department for a contribution for the project would be "taking money from the county roads and giving it to the state."

Speaking for the board of commissioners, C. L. Mitchell, chairman, said the project is a closed issue for this year so far as the county is concerned, unless the state accepts a five-year financing plan.

The commissioners had offered to contribute $50,000 to the project in five annual payments of $10,000. The state refused to accept it on that basis, asking that the funds be made available by 1941.

The board declined to issue bonds for the project, however, although the county's financial standing would permit them to finance the work that way. The county's bonded indebtedness will be paid off next year, leaving it as one of the few debt-free counties in Ohio.

"If we could take that money from the county general fund, it would be all right," Mitchell said. "but it would all have to come from the county highway department and to divert that much in two years would cripple the department's operations."

The state highway department gave no indication today that it would meet the county's terms Tuesday was the deadline for acceptance of the proposal.

Book of the Week

"THE CITY OF GOLD," by Francis Brett Young: (Reynal & Hitchcock: $2.75).

OUR two current literary exploiters of South Africa, Stuart Cloete and Francis Brett Young, are still working away. Today it is Mr. Young's turn, and his product is the second in a series of novels on the territory which could be extended indefinitely—and for all we know, will be. The title is "The City of Gold."

It is a fine novel, long and well shaped, broad enough of beam to sail well, deep enough of keel to hold the wind. It has all Mr. Young's virtues, and only one serious defect beyond a certain solemnity which attacks it once in a while.

This defect is the utter inability of any novelist, Young included, to write about the Boers and their stubborn conflicts without using too many South African words. No competent novelist would be so foolish as to write (for example) a novel on a German subject, and stuff his text full of German phrases; that would be considered affectation.

Yet, Mr. Young, who is neither affected nor a bad literary craftsman, expects his laboring reader to understand such words as "Boer-verneuker" and "roolnekke" and apparently even to like the silly things.

In "They Seek a Country," Mr. Young detailed the fortunes of John Grafton, Englishman, and his African Dutch wife. In this book the senior Graftons return, although the action centers on their children, and particularly on the three who symbolize for Mr. Young the chief currents of the time in Africa.

First the Kimberley diamonds were discovered, and then the fabulous gold in the Rand. The discoveries brought many undesirables into the district, brought the slow and too conservative Boers into conflict with the exploiting English, and often divided families as well.

Adrian Grafton, for an illustration, was slow of mind and strong of body, and sided with Paul Kruger and the Boers. Piet was the money-maker, and money is oftener made by compromise and an easy adjustment to circumstance than by Adrian's sort of life.

Janse, the third brother of importance in Mr. Young's novel, was physically the least capable and partly for that reason was the one to throw in his fortune with the gold factions. This conflict epitomizes the conflict of the land, and Mr. Young makes the most of it. Johannesburg, the city made by gold, is in itself a character, and the secondary leads are played by such men as Cecil Rhodes, Dr. Jameson, Barbey Barnato and their ilk.

Lastly, Mr. Young provides love—

TELLS COMMONS HITLER'S PEACE IS 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Chamberlain Assails 'Pledge Breaker,' Demands Definite Guarantees From Nazis.

forfeited "her honor" and abandoned her claim that international disputes should be settled peacefully.

That choice, he said firmly, the Allies refuse. The issue at stake "is plain," he said, and "it is for Germany to make her choice."

The German people, he said, want peace and so do the rest of the peoples of Europe. But they do not want Hitler's kind of peace, he maintained, because it would be a triumph for aggression. Only after the constant danger of force has been eliminated can the nations get together in an effort to create "a better world order" in which Germany would have her rightful place, he said.

"Surrender to wrong doing would spell the extinction of all hope," Chamberlain declared.

'Freedom For All At Stake.'

"It is not alone freedom for the small nations that is at stake . . . but the peaceful existence of . . . all the freedom-loving countries."

The impression made on parliament by the Chamberlain speech was indicated by announcement that David Lloyd George, who had urged most careful consideration of Hitler's terms as a basis for negotiation, had postponed a "speech of conciliation" he was to make on Friday.

The speech was an even more forceful rejection of Hitler's offer than the address by French Premier Edouard Daladier and its tone surprised parliament.

Hitler's 80-minute speech had fallen flat. No neutral nation, despite broad Nazi hints, had seized the opportunity to try to arrange a peace on his terms. Premier Edouard Daladier of France had denounced it in a speech made after consultation with the British government.

British sources hinted that a trade agreement signed with Russia yesterday, providing for the exchange of Russian timber for British empire rubber and tin, might have important political as well as trade results. What these results might be was not specified.

"We must take it that the proposals which the German chancellor put forward for establishment of what he calls 'the certainty of European security' are to be based on recognition of his conquests and his right to do what he pleases with the conquered," the prime minister said.

He recalled the German invasion of Poland.

"It is after this wanton act of aggression which cost so many Polish and German lives, sacrificed to satisfy his own insistence on the use of force, that the German chancellor now puts forward his proposals," he added.

"If there existed any expectation that in these proposals would be included some attempt to make amends for this grievous crime against humanity, following so soon upon the violation of the rights of the Czechoslovak nation, it has been doomed to d i s a ppointment," Chamberlain declared.

He said that Hitler seems to regard the fate of Poland as exclusively of German interest.

"Acts and not words alone must be forthcoming before we or France would be justified in ceasing to wage war to the utmost of our strength," Chamberlain said.

"The plain truth," he went on, "is that after our experience it is no longer possible to rely on the unsupported word of the present German government."

Reich Gets Full Blame.

Chamberlain firmly put responsibility for continuance of the war—and Nazis have predicted an immediate aerial and submarine offensive as a result of rejection of the Hitler peace offensive—on the government of the Reich.

"Last week," Chamberlain said, "in speaking of the announcement about the German-Russian pact, I observed that it contained the suggestion that some peace proposals were likely and said that if such proved to be the case, we should examine them in consultation with the Dominions and France."

Since then, he said, had come Hitler's speech and the decision of the Allies regarding that speech had been reached.

"The issue is plain," he went on.

"Either the German government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by provision for effective guarantees of their intention to fulfill their under-takings or we must preserve our duty to the end.

"It is for Germany to make her choice."

Chamberlain said that "the peace which we are determined to secure must be a real and settled peace—not an uneasy truce to be interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats."

Chamberlain inferentially denied reports—elsewhere charged to German propaganda of differences between France and Great Britain.

"I am glad to think that there is complete agreement in the views of his majesty's government and those of the French government," he said.

He called Hitler's proposals vague and uncertain.

"They contain no suggestion for righting the wrongs done to Czechoslovakia or Poland," he said.

"Even if the proposals contained suggestions to right these wrongs it would still be necessary to ask by what practical means the German government intends to convince the world that aggression will cease and pledges will be kept."

Chamberlain cited the many occasions on which Hitler allegedly broke his pledges.

"This repeated disregard for his word and this reversal of policy led to the fundamental difficulty of dealing with the wide proposals in the speech," he said.

He denied that Britain wanted to exclude Germany from her rightful place in Europe.

"It is not, therefore, with any vindictive purpose that we embarked upon this war but simply in defense of freedom," he continued.

Chamberlain said that Hitler had rejected peace until after he had overwhelmed Poland as he had previously overwhelmed Czechoslovakia.

"Peace conditions cannot be acceptable," he said, "when they begin by condoning aggression."

FINNS TO HEAR DEMANDS TODAY

Envoys Arrive in Moscow for Meeting With Stalin; Nation Gets Set for 'Calamity.'

It was unknown, of course, what proposals would be laid before the Finns when they retraced the recent steps of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian delegates to the conference table.

Pacts with Finland's three little neighbors gave the U. S. S. R. broad trade and transport concessions but also—more significantly—strategic footholds on their soil for Red air, sea and land forces.

There was every indication that the Finns would refuse to be rushed into any pact, especially one involving territorial concessions. Foreign quarters believed that while the Finns were prepared to grant certain concessions they would fight if worst came to worst.

Sweden apparently was backing the Finns and this support was seen as a possible softening influence on whatever plan the Russians broached to the Helsinki delegation.

Russia's virtual "protectorate" over Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania was generally regarded as having put her in strong position to resist any possible future German advance on the Soviet's Baltic flank—strengthening the belief in Moscow foreign circles that Germany had paid a high price for her non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union.

Moscow continued a beehive of international activity.

A Latvian trade delegation was expected to arrive today to supplement the recent mutual assistance pact with an economic agreement. Soviet trade experts continued commercial negotiations with German representatives.

Report U. S. Asked to Urge Reds to Ease Up.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt was reported today to be studying a suggestion that the United States, in concert with Scandinavia, urge Russia not to make immoderate demands on Finland.

There was no indication that the president would make any diplomatic move in the Finnish-Russian crisis. But refusal of the state department to comment was regarded in diplomatic quarters as leaving the door open for future action.

The United Press was informed by reliable sources that Sweden, Norway, and Finland have suggested that the United States enter into joint overtures to Russia urging against any demand that would compromise Finland's sovereignty and independence.

It was this report that the state department declined to discuss. The only comment by officials was a denial of an unconfirmed report from Sweden that a demarche already has been sent to Russia by the Scandinavian countries and the United States.

Finland Prepared For Peace or War.

HELSINKI—(AP)—Finland prepared today for calamity, knowing that peace or war may hang on the demands of Soviet Russia.

The Finns calmly sent their women and children into the country, strengthened their border fortifications and assigned civil guards to strategic points.

Helsinki authorities announced that work would be started today on the digging of air raid shelters in the capital, a city of about 293,000.

The grim-looking sandbags which have been piled up in other European and Scandinavian capitals for weeks also were expected to appear in this troubled corner of the northland.

The speed with which nation's affairs were being put in order for a possible emergency supported the declaration in responsible Finnish sources that the nation would oppose military and economic agreements such as its Baltic neighbors yielded and, if necessary, would resist.

Commentators stressed Finland's membership in the so-called "neutrality bloc" of northern states and the Helsinki newspaper Uusi Suomi declared:

"Any attempt to force us to give up our neutral position and force us into some kind of new political scheme will receive absolute uncompromising opposition."

ports is that the pivot of the German offensive will be in the vicinity of Luxembourg, with right and left wings sweeping widely in a double envelopment movement by way of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland.

The raid, on a plateau east of the Moselle river near the Luxembourg frontier, was believed to have involved two full companies of German troops. It was accompanied by a heavy artillery barrage on French positions.

Reports from the front, however, said it was repulsed after "hot fighting" in which there were numerous casualties. The German raiders, military advices added, failed in their purpose of capturing French prisoners.

The action was shrouded under the wording of today's military communique, No. 77, which stated:

"Activity of first line elements was extended on several sectors of the front between the Moselle and Rhine rivers during the night."

German raids and patrol activities are growing more intense and frequent as the fighting on Saar sector becomes more ferocious. However, there still has been no concerted German attack.

It was confirmed officially that the French brought down a German observation plane yesterday while it was seeking to reconnoiter over the French lines.

With incessant rains continuing along the entire front, aerial observation has been sharply restricted, although French fliers reported they found a hole in the clouds over the German lines at one point and made some "very interesting photographs." The pictures showed German positions.

The French public was delighted at official revelation in London that 158,000 British troops had been sent to France. There was much comment in authoritative Paris circles on the high quality of the British arms and mechanized equipment.

Today's developments at the front were regarded as a further indication that a major German offensive soon may be expected.

Reports from the battle front stated that the Germans recently have been sending out reconnaissance patrols consisting of several companies of seasoned, war-toughened troops. These have been using the infiltration method which the Germans used so successfully in sweeping across Poland.

But on the western front the Germans have met the systematically consolidated advance French lines, which have fought off the enemy with withering fire.

the plan would only produce an estimated $100,000,000.

"The amendment thus threatens curtailment of local government, highways, relief, welfare agencies and schools," he said.

"Interpreted one way," Smtih explained, "the proposal makes about 690,000 Ohio citizens eligible for the pension payments, and the most dependable figures available, provided by the State Tax Sommission, show that the annual dost would be more than $300,000,000.

"Interpreted another way," he continued, "the amendment might exclude aged farmers, craftsmen, housewives, small store owners, professional people, musicians, lecturers, entertainers, and many others who, since they did not draw a regular wage during their working year, have not been 'retired from gainful occupation as wage-earners' as the amendment prescribes."

DELINQUENT TAX BILL LOWEST IN PAST 10 YEARS

$60,000 Collected by County This Year, Cutting Amount Due to $248,000.

Richland county's delinquent tax bill has been reduced $59,886 this year to $248,502, the lowest mark in a decade.

Figures compiled by County Treasurer John E. Kolb show that delinquent payments so far in 1939 have included $32,476 in special assessments on real estate and $27,409 in general real estate taxes.

The marked reduction in delinquencies was attributed to a large number of foreclosure sales and a plan which enables property owners to pay their back taxes in installments

$308,000 at Start of Year.

Total delinquencies now on the tax books are $248,502 as compared with $308,388 at the beginning of this year's tax collection, Kolb said.

The treasurer's figures showed that total taxes collected this year amounted to $1,234,111 which included $640,058 during the first half of the year and $594,053 in the second half collection period which ended last month

Receipts for the year were $241,601 short of the total amount due in 1939, the treasurer said. Based on the current charge, collections for the last half totaled 103 per cent. Receipts, however, included payments on delinquencies.

TELLS COMMONS HITLER'S PEACE IS 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Chamberlain Assails 'Pledge Breaker,' Demands Definite Guarantees From Nazis.

forfeited "her honor" and abandoned her claim that international disputes should be settled peacefully.

That choice, he said firmly, the Allies refuse. The issue at stake "is plain," he said, and "it is for Germany to make her choice."

The German people, he said, want peace and so do the rest of the peoples of Europe. But they do not want Hitler's kind of peace, he maintained, because it would be a triumph for aggression. Only after the constant danger of force has been eliminated can the nations get together in an effort to create "a better world order" in which Germany would have her rightful place, he said.

"Surrender to wrong doing would spell the extinction of all hope," Chamberlain declared.

'Freedom For All At Stake.'

"It is not alone freedom for the small nations that is at stake . . . but the peaceful existence of . . . all the freedom-loving countries."

The impression made on parliament by the Chamberlain speech was indicated by announcement that David Lloyd George, who had urged most careful consideration of Hitler's terms as a basis for negotiation, had postponed a "speech of conciliation" he was to make on Friday.

The speech was an even more forceful rejection of Hitler's offer than the address by French Premier Edouard Daladier and its tone surprised parliament.

Hitler's 80-minute speech had fallen flat. No neutral nation, despite broad Nazi hints, had seized the opportunity to try to arrange a peace on his terms. Premier Edouard Daladier of France had denounced it in a speech made after consultation with the British government.

British sources hinted that a trade agreement signed with Russia yesterday, providing for the exchange of Russian timber for British empire rubber and tin, might have important political as well as trade results. What these results might be was not specified.

"We must take it that the proposals which the German chancellor put forward for establishment of what he calls 'the certainty of European security' are to be based on recognition of his conquests and his right to do what he pleases with the conquered," the prime minister said.

He recalled the German invasion of Poland.

"It is after this wanton act of aggression which cost so many Polish and German lives, sacrificed to satisfy his own insistence on the use of force, that the German chancellor now puts forward his proposals," he added.

"If there existed any expectation that in these proposals would be included some attempt to make amends for this grievous crime against humanity, following so soon upon the violation of the rights of the Czechoslovak nation, it has been doomed to disappointment," Chamberlain declared.

He said that Hitler seems to regard the fate of Poland as exclusively of German interest.

"Acts and not words alone must be forthcoming before we or France would be justified in ceasing to wage war to the utmost of our strength," Chamberlain said.

"The plain truth," he went on, "is that after our experience it is no longer possible to rely on the unsupported word of the present German government."

Reich Gets Full Blame.

Chamberlain firmly put responsibility for continuance of the war —and Nazis have predicted an immediate aerial and submarine offensive as a result of rejection of the Hitler peace offensive—on the government of the Reich.

"Last week," Chamberlain said, "in speaking of the announcement about the German-Russian pact, I observed that it contained the suggestion that some peace proposals were likely and said that if such proved to be the case, we should examine them in consultation with the Dominions and France."

Since then, he said, had come Hitler's speech and the decision of the Allies regarding that speech had been reached.

"The issue is plain," he went on.

"Either the German government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by provision for effective guarantees of their intention to fulfill their under-takings or we must preserve our duty to the end.

"It is for Germany to make her choice."

Chamberlain said that "the peace which we are determined to secure must be a real and settled peace—not an uneasy truce to be interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats."

Chamberlain inferentially denied reports—elsewhere charged to German propaganda—of differences between France and Great Britain.

"I am glad to think that there is complete agreement in the views of his majesty's government and those of the French government," he said.

He called Hitler's proposals vague and uncertain.

"They contain no suggestion for righting the wrongs done to Czechoslovakia or Poland," he said.

"Even if the proposals contained suggestions to right these wrongs it would still be necessary to ask by what practical means the German government intends to convince the world that aggression will cease and pledges will be kept."

Chamberlain cited the many occasions on which Hitler allegedly broke his pledges.

"This repeated disregard for his word and this reversal of policy led to the fundamental difficulty of dealing with the wide proposals in the speech," he said.

He denied that Britain wanted to exclude Germany from her rightful place in Europe.

"It is not, therefore, with any vindictive purpose that we embarked upon this war but simply in defense of freedom," he continued.

Chamberlain said that Hitler had rejected peace until after he had overwhelmed Poland as he had previously overwhelmed Czechoslovakia.

"Peace conditions cannot be acceptable," he said, "when they begin by condoning aggression."

It was unknown, of course, what proposals would be laid before the Finns when they retraced the recent steps of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian delegates to the conference table.

Pacts with Finland's three little neighbors gave the U. S. S. R. broad trade and transport concessions but also—more significantly—strategic footholds on their soil for Red air, sea and land forces.

There was every indication that the Finns would refuse to be rushed into any pact, especially one involving territorial concessions. Foreign quarters believed that while the Finns were prepared to grant certain concessions they would fight if worst came to worst.

Report U. S. Asked to Urge Reds to Ease Up.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt was reported today to be studying a suggestion that the United States, in concert with Scandinavia, urge Russia not to make immoderate demands on Finland.

There was no indication that the president would make any diplomatic move in the Finnish-Russian crisis. But refusal of the state department to comment was regarded in diplomatic quarters as leaving the door open for future action.

The United Press was informed by reliable sources that Sweden, Norway, and Finland have suggested that the United States enter into joint overtures to Russia urging against any demand that would compromise Finland's sovereignty and independence.

It was this report that the state department declined to discuss. The only comment by officials was a denial of an unconfirmed report from Sweden that a demarche already has been sent to Russia by the Scandinavian countries and the United States.

Finland Prepared For Peace or War.

HELSINKI—(AP)—Finland prepared today for calamity, knowing that peace or war may hang on the demands of Soviet Russia.

The Finns calmly sent their women and children into the country, strengthened their border fortifications and assigned civil guards to strategic points.

Helsinki authorities announced that work would be started today on the digging of air raid shelters in the capital, a city of about 293,000.

The grim-looking sandbags which have been piled up in other European and Scandinavian capitals for weeks also were expected to appear in this troubled corner of the northland.

The speed with which nation's affairs were being put in order for a possible emergency supported the declaration in responsible Finnish sources that the nation would oppose military and economic agreements such as its Baltic neighbors yielded and, if necessary would resist.

Commentators stressed Finland's membership in the so-called "neutrality bloc" of northern states and the Helsinki newspaper Uusi Suomi declared:

"Any attempt to force us to give up our neutral position and force us into some kind of new political scheme will receive absolute uncompromising opposition."

ports is that the pivot of the German offensive will be in the vicinity of Luxembourg, with right and left wings sweeping widely in a double envelopment movement by way of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland.

The raid, on a plateau east of the Moselle river near the Luxembourg frontier, was believed to have involved two full companies of German troops. It was accompanied by a heavy artillery barrage on French positions.

Reports from the front, however, said it was repulsed after "hot fighting" in which there were numerous casualties. The German raiders, military advices added, failed in their purpose of capturing French prisoners.

The action was shrouded under the wording of today's military communique, No. 77, which stated:

"Activity of first line elements was extended on several sectors of the front between the Moselle and Rhine rivers during the night."

German raids and patrol activities are growing more intense and frequent as the fighting on Saar sector becomes more ferocious. However, there still has been no concerted German attack.

It was confirmed officially that the French brought down a German observation plane yesterday while it was seeking to reconnoiter over the French lines.

With incessant rains continuing along the entire front, aerial observation has been sharply restricted, although French fliers reported they found a hole in the clouds over the German lines at one point and made some "very interesting photographs." The pictures showed German positions.

The French public was delighted at official revelation in London that 158,000 British troops had been sent to France. There was much comment in authoritative Paris circles on the high quality of the British arms and mechanized equipment.

Today's developments at the front were regarded as a further indication that a major German offensive soon may be expected.

Reports from the battle front stated that the Germans recently have been sending out reconnaissance patrols consisting of several companies of seasoned, war-toughened troops. These have been using the infiltration method which the Germans used so successfully in sweeping across Poland.

But on the western front the Germans have met the systematically consolidated advance French lines, which have fought off the enemy with withering fire.

estimated $100,000,000.

"The amendment thus threatens curtailment of local government, highways, relief, welfare agencies and schools," he said.

"Interpreted one way," Smith explained, "the proposal makes about 690,000 Ohio citizens eligible for the pension payments, and the most dependable figures available, provided by the State Tax Commission, show that the annual dost would be more than $300,000,000.

"Interpreted another way," he continued, "the amendment might exclude aged farmers, craftsmen, housewives, small store owners, professional people, musicians, lecturers, entertainers, and many others who, since they did not draw a regular wage during their working year, have not been 'retired from gainful occupation as wage-earners' as the amendment prescribes."

DELINQUENT TAX BILL LOWEST IN PAST 10 YEARS

$60,000 Collected by County This Year, Cutting Amount Due to $248,000.

Richland county's delinquent tax bill has been reduced $59,886 this year to $248,502, the lowest mark in a decade.

Figures compiled by County Treasurer John E. Kolb show that delinquent payments so far in 1939 have included $32,476 in special assessments on real estate and $27,409 in general real estate taxes.

The marked reduction in delinquencies was attributed to a large number of foreclosure sales and a plan which enables property owners to pay their back taxes in installments.

$308,000 at Start of Year.

Total delinquencies now on the tax books are $248,502 as compared with $308,388 at the beginning of this year's tax collection, Kolb said.

The treasurer's figures showed that total taxes collected this year amounted to $1,234,111 which included $640,058 during the first half of the year and $594,053 in the second half collection period which ended last month.

Receipts for the year were $241,601 short of the total amount due in 1939, the treasurer said. Based on the current charge, collections for the last half totaled 103 per cent. Receipts, however, included payments on delinquencies.

ICE LURES FISH

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — (U.P.) — Patrolman Michael Reiser has devised a method of improving live plugs. The plug, floating on the water, emits a trail of fumes which assertedly proves an attraction to large fish.

ROYAL COUPLE'S PLIGHT TRACED IN NEW NOVEL

'Imperial Twilight' Story of Pair Who Became Pawns in Post-War Europe.

New fiction at the Public library this week ranges from Austrian royal exiles to American cowboys, while the non-fiction extends from the present day philosophies of statesmen back to the political philosophy of Alexander Hamilton.

IMPERIAL TWILIGHT by Bertita Harding presents a modern royal couple who became pawns in the destiny of post-war Europe, Archduke Karl who was Emperor Franz Josef's successor to the throne of Austria, and his wife, Princess Zita. When Karl was forced after the Armistice to relinquish the Hapsburg throne, Zita was relentless in her efforts to restore him, and after his death, she continued to pin her hopes of restoring him the dynasty on her son, Archduke Otto. The book displays Miss Harding's talent for dramatic plot and characterization.

ROGUE MALE by Geoffrey Household describes in fiction the emotions of a would-be assassin, an English sportsman who, crossing the frontier from Poland, deliberately stalked the Dictator and was caught by the guards. His subsequent escape is the first of a number of adventures in which the enemy attempts to track him down.

PURSLANE by Mrs. Bernice Kelly Harris is the story of a family of cotton farmers in a North Carolina community in the early years of the twentieth century. The book gives a well-rounded picture of life among these people and relates incidents which bring out their traditional and regional folkways.

Also included in the fiction list for the week is:

ABEL DAYTON, Lewis.
HOPE OF LIVING, Downing.
FORBIDDEN TRAILS, Robertson.
LONE COWBOY, Edholm.
RED GASH OUTLAWS, Snow.

Series' of Debates

FOUNDATIONS OF DEMOCRACY contains the series of debates by Thomas Vernor Smith, representative from Illinois, and Robert A. Taft, senator from Ohio, which were presented by the Columbia Broadcasting system during 1939 under the title which has been given to the book. These speakers of clearly opposed political views, sought, by commentary on the day-to-day functioning of our government method of public criticism and controversy is constructive.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON by David Loth is a portrait of a prodigy who became the author of an important defense of democracy, "The Federalist." The portrait of this statesman is real, being based chiefly on the collection of Hamilton papers which was made by the widow of Hamilton.

YOU AND HEREDITY by Amram Scheinfeld is a book by a layman who has peered into the laboratories of the scientists concerned with the study of human heredity and reports back what he has seen, heard, and yearned. There are chapters on evolution, the Dionnes, and Mendel's law which explain the factor of heredity in rather simple terms.

Demonstrating Care of Baby In Red Cross Class

Practical demonstrations on how to hold a baby and how to bathe it are given to members of the Red Cross home hygiene class which opened last night at Red Cross headquarters. The class "infant" however, can be dropped or sat on without serious consequences for it's of the unbreakable variety. Mrs. Warren Fort, Red Cross nurse, center, is demonstrating to Mrs. P. J. Boyd, left, and Mrs. R. F. Bair, right.

CARE OF SICK, INFANTS TAUGHT IN NEW HOME HYGIENE CLASS

One of the major esrvices on the Richland county Red Cross program for the year got under way last night when the first home hygiene class of the season was held at chapter headquarters.

The classes are under the instruction of Mrs. Warren Fort, registered Red Cross nurse. The course requires 30 hours—15 lessons of two hours each. The classes are not so much study as instructions and practical demonstrations of home hygiene subjects.

The course deals with caring for the sick in private homes, care of babies and of mothers during the pre-natal period, and sanitation and simple first aid remedies which may be used at home.

The Red Cross classroom is equipped with a hospital bed, and some member of the class "subs" for the sick person while the class learns how to turn a patient in bed, how to change the bed linen without disturbing the occupant and how to bathe a bed patient.

Most interesting subject to younger women is caring for a baby, how to bathe it, dress it and train it for proper hours of sleep and feeding. The class has a life-sized doll—just the size of a newborn baby—with which to learn the A-B-C's of handling an infant.

Many of the traditional "cures" and first aid remedies of the home are scoffed at, such as giving stimulants to fainting persons to revive them. The mistaken idea that bathing a person, ill with the grippe or flu, is harmful is replaced by modern, scientific methods, demonstrated by the nurse.

Diets for growing children and invalids also are taken up in the class, as well as the correct way to launder clothes of a baby or invalid. In fact, practically everything that has to do with sanitation and hygiene in the home, is discussed.

The Richland county Red Cross launched its home hygiene service last year. Plans to make it one of the major items on the Red Cross program this year were made at the beginning of the season. Mrs. Coleman Todd is chairman of the home hygiene committee.

Last night's class had 20 students. A second class is ready to begin the course. Applications are being received at Red Cross headquarters.

MURALS OF 1780 FOUND IN HOME

Paintings of Revolution Period Uncovered in Old House in Rockport, Mass.

ROCKPORT, Mass.—(U.P.)—Murals apparently painted in the days just after the American Revolution have been uncovered in an old Smith street home.

Buried under four layers of wallpaper for several generations, the murals, quaint in design and of antiquarian value, were found when decorators cleaned the walls preparatory to re-papering.

Mrs. Marian J. Cooney, whose family owned the house for many years, was unaware of the murals' presenee. The stock of new wallpaper she had selected to cover the small parlor's walls never will be used.

Identity of the artist who created the work is not known, although Mrs. Etta S. Moore, 80, recalled that the builder, George Knowlton, had a daughter who was artistically inclined.

The paintings were believed to have been executed about 150 years ago as the two flags crossed over an apple tree and a brace of doves, contained 13 stars and 10 bars each. Figures in this mural and those on the other three walls are stiff, but attractive.

Most interesting of the panels is one depicting a farm worker at a well who lifts an oaken bucket to his lips as a small blue dog looks on. A three-pronged pitchfork lies on the ground and in the distance can be seen two houses of the salt-box type—one side of the roof being longer than the other.

KNOCKED OUT

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—A 15-year-old Pasadena boy, who had borrowed the family car without permission, was being pursued so hotly by his irate father in a truck, that the boy in an effort to escape him, lost control of the wheel, and crashed into a church with such force that he knocked the cornerstone out of the foundation. The juvenile court and all concerned went into a huddle on the affair.

LIVES 30 YEARS ON RIVER BARGE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.— (U.P.) — Here is a woman who hasn't been on land in 30 years — not even when she is ill.

Mrs. Margaret Lown, 62, lives on a barge in the city harbor and she claims never to have set foot on land since 1909. She recently suffered a serious stomach ailment and Dr. Louis Oros, city ambulance surgeon, had to go out to the barge in a motorboat to treat her.

TEACHERS GO TO KENT TOMORROW

4 From City Schools to Attend Departmental Conference.

Four supervisors and teachers from Mansfield schools will go to Kent, Friday, to attend the 10th annual Northeastern Ohio Teacher Training and Departmental conference at Kent State university.

In the Mansfield delegation will be Miss Dora McLeod, primary superivisor; Miss Florence Robison, art supervisor; Miss Lucille Beattie, teacher at Hedges school, and Miss Mary Engwiller, teacher in the Western avenue school.

Speakers at the sessions, which will continue through Friday, will include Paul Allen, president of the Ohio Elementary Principals' association; Supt. H. L. Bowman of Ravenna schools, and Supt. Terry Wickham of the Cuyahoga Heights schools.

MORE BUILDING

2 New Homes, Addition to Filling Station to be Erected.

October building valuations were boosted $10,350 today with the issuance at city hall of three building permits, two of which were for new residences.

They went to Harry W. Daily, 227 Hedges street, for the construction of a $4,200 residence at 683 West Third street; Clifton Laser, 54 State street, who will build a $3,950 home at 164 Chilton avenue, and the Hart Oil company for a $2,200 addition to a filling station at 190 Lexington avenue.

PLAGUE CARMEL

CARMEL, Cal.—(U.P.)—This city has abolished the system of tagging automobiles for parking infractions. The reason was that under the existing ordinance a driver could not be prosecuted for tearing up his tag unless a policeman saw him. Those who did not tear up their tags secretly just left them intact and ignored them.

DESERT HOMES CONQUER HEAT WITH COOLERS

Simple Fan Apparatus Keeps Temperatures in Upper 70's in Arizona.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Fifteen thousand Arizona families have discovered how to live comfortably in the summer when temperatures pass 115 degrees day after day.

The way is a home window box cooler, operated on the evaporation principle.

Introduced for the first time on the desert three years ago, the window cooler is growing yearly in popularity. Hundreds of families who once moved to the mountains or to the Pacific Coast in summer now stay at home in relative comfort.

Fan Stirs Moist Air.

Coolers are built of wood or sheet metal, with the outside part covered with a pad of excelsior through which water drips from a copper tubing at the top. As the water breaks up and evaporates in the heat, a fan inside throws cool, moist air into the house.

A variation of the fan type cooler is a blower housed in the window box.

When temperatures range above 100 outside, studies have shown a box cooling system will maintain about 78 degrees inside.

"The mode of life on the desert has changed abruptly to comfortable living in the summer," a University of Arizona research circular said, "because homemade and manufactured box coolers are being installed. A cooler is now a recognized part of desert life."

Cost From $10 to $100.

The coolers, costing from $10 to $100, also are in general use in parts of Texas, New Mexico, Nevada and California, according to the university.

Origin of direct evaporation cooling, exemplified by the Arizona window box type of cooler, is not definitely known, but apparently has developed independently in many countries and in ancient times.

Indians of the west used the principle in their water ollas and wet blankets were used for human cooling. Wet sheets or blankets were extensively used by early settlers in arid regions when they desired to sleep in the hot summer daytime. Wet fabric drapes were also hung in open doors and windows on the windward side of the house.

The principle of evaporation is not new, but its adoption with a motorized fan or blower has added to its control and use.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

There are many incidents in American history which are as interesting and exciting as any which can be imagined by a good author. Two books based on such incidents will be displayed at the library this week.

LAND FOR MY SONS, by Maribelle Cormack and William P. Alexander—When the Revolution began the Donegal settlement of Scots people in Pennsylvania was one of the first to mobilize. Among the soldiers was Michael Thompson, a distant cousin of the same clan. The movements of Washington's army, the negotiations with the Indians, and the interesting characters, many of which are real people, will make this a popular book for ninth grade and high school readers.

HOBNAILED BOOTS, by Jeanette Nolan—With fewer historical characters but almost as much action, this story is a picture of the adventures of two young boys captured as innocent spies and forced to join George Rogers Clark's expedition to Cascaskia. This book is for boys in junior high.

BIRTHS TOP DEATHS

WILLARD—According to the records of City Clerk Clarence Hessler for September, there were 11 births and seven deaths in Willard during the month. There were no births nor deaths in any rural district surrounding Willard.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, sharp stabs, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MARINE BAND, ONE OF NATION'S OLDEST, ESTABLISHED IN 1798

The U. S. Marine band, which will give two concerts in the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium, Sunday, Oct. 29, is one of the nation's oldest musical organizations.

Organized in 1798, the band was 141 years old last July, and has played at every presidential inaugural ceremony since Thomas Jefferson took office.

Every president, except Washington, has called upon it to play at important White House functions. It appeared at funeral services for five presidents and from the beginning it has been known as "The President's Own" band.

In its Mansfield concerts the band will be directed by W. F. Santelmann, second leader, who will substitute for Capt. Taylor Branson, unable to lead the organization on its tour because of illness.

Santelmann is the son of W. H. Santelmann, who directed the Marine band for more than 30 years, succeeding the late John Philip Sousa as director. Director Santelmann was in charge of the band when it played for the king and queen of England during their visit to Washington last summer.

General admission tickets for the concerts here may be obtained at Mansfield music stores, from Junior Association of Commerce members and from Louis E. Pete in Ashland.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at Tawse's drug store in Mansfield. Sale of tickets is in charge of Russell Doehla, Robert Kuhn, Jack Pealer, Robert Riland, and H. J. Hollingsworth of the Junior Association of Commerce which will sponsor the band's appearance in Mansfield.

THURSDAY TRIPS SPELLERS

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Dr. H. E. Hendrix, state superintendent of schools, has classified "Thursday" as a "spelling demon." A statewide "spelling bee" revealed the fact that almost one-half of the third grade elementary pupils cannot spell it and only about one-third of the fourth graders. Dr. Hendrix qualifies as "spelling demons" words that are misspelled by 30 per cent of a class. He has a list of 54 such demons.

Seaman Bares 'Inside Story' of Flight of Bremen

DECLARES SHIP FLEW RUSSIAN FLAG TO HAVEN

Nazis Prepared to Destroy Luxury Liner Rather Than to Be Captured.

(By Associated Press)
(Copyright, 1939)

AMSTERDAM—A Netherlands seaman on the German liner Bremen declared today the vessel reached Murmansk, north Russian port, after a thrilling voyage during which she flew the Soviet flag and preparations were made to destroy her rather than allow her to fall in British hands.

E. Post, a cook and only Netherlands seaman on the Bremen when she sailed Aug. 30, from New York, told his story in a copyrighted interview with the Amsterdam newspaper Het Volk after his return to his native country.

He said Captain Adolf Ahrens skirted the blockade of the British fleet with barrels of gasoline on deck ready for burning the vessel rather than allow her to be captured by the British.

The voyage was veiled in such secrecy, he said, that the crew did not know the liner's destination, all lights were extinguished during the north Atlantic crossing and the wireless answered no calls.

Post said that after some days at sea he realized the Bremen was sailing far to the north, because of the cold weather, but that he had no idea where she was going.

Ship Painted Grey.

There were no passengers or cargo and every precaution was made to save the crew in event of an attack.

The vessel was painted gray as she sped across the Atlantic.

She traveled much of the time in heavy mist, which helped to conceal her from any ships near her course.

Post said the Bremen flew the Soviet flag and the flag of the North German-Lloyd line, but carried no German colors.

He said Capt. Ahrens called the crew together Sept. 3, the day Great Britain and France declared war, and told them the war had started.

"It doesn't look very good for us," he quoted the captain as saying, "for I've sworn that the English won't seize me and my ship while I'm alive. I would rather sink the Bremen."

Post told of delays in New York and how the vessel sailed Aug. 30 with only a few officers knowing where she was going.

"We were making fun of the fact that everybody in the world was asking 'where is the Bremen?' but the prospect of running the English blockage was not very cheering.

"The first morning out everybody who had nothing more urgent to do, including butchers, stewards and cooks, plus a few sailors, all got pots of gray paint. Life boats were swung out and the men applied the paint to the sides of the ship, wielding paint brushes with long handles.

"The cabins of the crew in the fore of the ship were left vacant so that in case of a collision the crew would be safer. Barrels of gasoline were on deck so that if English men-o'-war neared the Bremen could be set on fire."

Ohio Apples Left to Rot Because of Huge Surplus

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Thousands of bushels of apples are rotting on the ground in Ohio orchards because a surplus of 2,000,000 bushels has demoralized prices, the Ohio State university agricultural extension service reported today.

Apples are being given away and sold for as low as five cents a bushel; farmers are feeding them to livestock, and the federal surplus commodities corporation has stepped in to prevent a great waste in the crop.

The corporation has agreed to buy 50 carloads a week. It will buy one bushel for each bushel the farmers divert in silage or products such as cider, jelly and apple butter.

The university extension service, to help promote use of apples, is circulating literature, such as a 31-page booket entitled, "85 Ways of Using Apples." Grocery stores all over the state are arranging for an "apple week."

The commercial apple production in Ohio this year is approximately 5,750,000 bushels, as compared with a 10-year average of 3,325,000 bushels and a crop last year of 1,950,000 bushels.

BETTY DENIES IT

Bricker, Aides to Confer on Assembly Call

Up and Down THE STREET

When the new Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein musical "Very Warm for May," opens in New York on Nov. 13, a member of the cast will be Jack Wilson of Mansfield who left here a year ago to join the Fred Waring Glee club. For the past six months Wilson has been with the Glee club which had been "farmed" out to Billy Rose's Acquacade at the World's fair. A quartet from this group was among the many applicants for places in the Kern show. The four boys will understudy the leads in the show which will play at Wilmington, Boston, and Washington before opening in New York.

Since the affair was inaugurated, the veteran police officer has been the No. 1 man in the ticket sales department. Yoakum reached an all-time high for individual sales for this year's dance, which will be held at the Coliseum Monday, when he passed the 500 mark.

Mansfield continues to make the national air lanes. Yesterday noon it was the Service League which was "aired" by Kate Smith on her nation-wide broadcast. She told of this unique group of Mansfield women whose objective is to aid, not the charity cases of the city, but the families that are struggling to get along on their own and have a difficult time of it. The league's activities range from obtaining radios for shut-ins to overshoes for school children. The organization, which serves as a clearing house for people who want to give and people who need to receive, which started last year and now has quarters at 33½ South Mulberry street. Kate Smith told of the league's beginning and the work it is doing in her program.

Both pleasure and work are combined with rehearsals now being held by the Senior high school band in preparation for the district band contest next spring. The pleasant part comes when the musicians sit back in their chairs and listen to recordings by the Minneapolis symphony orchestra of two numbers on which the band is now working. The work comes when the group gets down to practicing the selections.

GOVERNOR WILL POLL LEADERS ON NEEDY AID

Tells Hard-Pressed Toledo He'll Check Legislators on Special Session.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. John W. Bricker, who has been warned that food riots and hunger will come unless new relief money is found, has decided to poll leaders of the legislature for their reaction to demands that a special session be called to raise that money.

Officials of Toledo, where relief was off Sept. 15 when funds and credits ran out, said today the governor told them during a conference yesterday that he would consult legislators, perhaps this week. The city officials had pleaded for a special session to enact a funding measure, but Bricker stood by his oft-repeated stand that the legislature was opposed to imposition of new taxes and it was useless to call a session.

Meanwhile, Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland turned to the Chamber of Commerce for support in a plea for a special session. The mayor said that all Cleveland relief funds will have been spent shortly after Nov. 1 and that all resources have been exhausted. This year's relief deficit will run between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, city officials said.

Burton also has conferred with the governor, only to receive the same response as was given Toledo officials and a delegation from the Ohio congress of industrial organizations.

The labor group called on Bricker a second time yesterday to repeate its demand for legislatrve action to prevent "food riots."

The governor said that speeding up of the state highway departement's program might provide work for 5,000 men. Dr. Carl Watson, Ohio WPA administrator, estimated that between 5,000 and 10,000 persons would be added to the WPA rolls during October.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce told Burton it would appoint a committee of taxpayers to aid in solving the relief problem.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Politics Finally Reach a Place That Used to Be Far, Far Away From It All

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

POUND RIDGE, Conn.—Up here where I live, away from it all, political strife is brewing, because so many people have come up to get away from it all that we aren't away from it at all any more.

A dozen years ago it was very quiet; the roads were rough and the village store sold overalls, patent medicines and licorice whips. Now the roads are very well kept and the store sells imported ale, charged water and camembert. It is still quiet enough as far as actual noise is concerned, except that sometimes, when the moon is full, the dogs argue among the hills until all hours, and one city man—a country hoosier, at that—complained that a nearby chicken farm which was there long before he moved up was driving him crazy with all that crowing and carrying on so early in the morning.

It is political disquiet that disturbs the beautiful countryside, and it is not so much heard as felt, although there have been some processions and some meetings fraught with angry oratory.

It seems that among those who saw the place first and restored abandoned farmhouses or built new dwellings there was apprehension lest too many refugees from the mental moil of the city and not just the right type follow them into this paradise—an objection which suggests that a zoning problem may arise one day even in heaven. For this reason it was decided that the region be zoned and that, among other restrictions, building plots should be at least two acres in extent. There was objection to that right away on the ground that of the local young men and women, who were only little kids when we started to beautify nature with nursery trees, and lawn furniture, many could not afford two acres, particularly at small-parcel prices, which are proportionately higher than the prices of big acreage.

That is true, and in his phase the zoning ordinance can be attacked as an act to discourage matrimony and drive these young people out of the community in which they were born and in which, in many cases, their ancestors fought the Indians and the British over these very hills.

Soon an agitation began to array the country people against the city folks, but the political line is badly snarled, because the zoning people include some straight descendants of local pioneers, while the other side includes some Johnly-come-latelys from town. The head man of the anti-zoning party, who is running for supervisor—a $3,000 job—not only works in New York but has expressed his intention to deputize, or farm out, the routine duties of the office to a personal representative because he will be too busy in the city to give them his personal attention.

There are some other confusing angles, too. For instance, the country ticket, led by city people, would open the region to bungalow settlements of city people, who would thus increase to a hopeless degree the very preponderance against which the present campaign is directed.

Another thing is that this new ticket is Democratic in an old-time kiver-to-kiver Republican district but calls itself the citizens ticket, which is an insinuation that the Republicans, both city and country, aren't really citizens at all but civic and political declarees, like convicts and lunatics. Some of our people feel pretty insulated about that. And, further to confuse the confusion, the New Dealers of the citizens party are raising a hue and cry against the incumbent Republicans for trying to establish a self-perpetuating political monopoly—which is a fine thing coming from anyone who indorses a third term for the president. I am not sure but that those who oppose the new ticket may be deemed to have knifed President Roosevelt in a critical time.

There is almost no industry around any more. The farming is negligible; the old family industries, such as piecework sewing on clothing and hand-made shoes, vanished long ago, and New York money is almost the only money that finds its way into local circulation.

It is kind of funny to find city people who are, on the whole, inclined to prejudice and to exclude others, individually and en masse, themselves attacked as undesirables on the proposition that if you let one city family get a foothold their relatives and friends will soon overrun you and eventually run you out. The suggestion that the city people are not even citizens, not even Americans, is the topper. It is funny, but it shows you what can be done with an appeal to prejudice against the cut of another man's jib or his nose.

And it was so lovely and quiet up here away from it all until it all followed us up.

Mary Castrataro, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Castrataro, 249 West Sixth street, was treated at General hospital yesterday for a foot injury suffered when roof support at 152 Bowman street, fell upon her as she walked along the sidewalk.

Police said the falling timber had been torn loose by a truck as it swung close to the curb at the Carl Heilman grocery. The machine was operated by Ralph Curtis, 166 West First street, police said.

HONOR WINNERS

A "victory dinner" will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel tonight for 42 members of the Chamber of Commerce who concluded the organization's fall membership drive last week by topping their quota of 80 new members by more than 25 per cent.

The 21 two-man teams, which enlisted 117 new members during the five-day campaign, will be feted at the dinner and prizes will be awarded by President C. L. VanDerau to the winning teams.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTS UP $1,000 DESPITE UPTURN IN BUSINESS

Despite a steady upturn in business and industry, relief costs in Richland county, exclusive of Shelby, increased more than $1,000 last month when 228 families and 94 single persons in Mansfield were provided with food, clothing and fuel, the monthly report of Relief Director J. Verne Finney disclosed today.

The amount spent for relief in the area totaled $9,585, or $1,075 more than the August expenditures of $8,510.

The increase in the costs, Finney said, was partly because of fuel bills and a few applications from WPA workers laid off under the government's 18-month rule.

The September expenditures include the total expenses for Mansfield and participating townships under the relief set-up inaugurated two months ago. Under the plan Shelby now administers its own relief.

Mansfield's relief costs totaled $4,150 for the 952 individuals on the relief rolls. Of that figure, $1,437 was charged as work relief.

Administrative costs for the city were $576 while non-administrative costs, including medical services rendered in 543 cases, totaled $701, Finney said.

His report showed 79 new cases were added to the rolls during the month while 45 cases were closed, leaving a net increase of 34 new cases.

It also revealed more than eighty tons of surplus commodities were distributed to relief clients in the county.

During the month the WPA sewing project made and turned over to relief headquarters for distribution 1,796 garments including children and women's wearing apparel which was valued at $1,923. The project cost the administration $361 for supplies.

KILLED BY TRAIN

ASHTABULA—(AP)—Anthony Canu, 46, was killed yesterday when struck by a Nickel Plate passenger train here.

DEATH MYSTERY

Body of Air Lines Hostess Found in Blazing Auto.

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)—Police continued an investigation today into the death of Miss Lorraine Rosemarie Goodall, 23-year-old air line hostess whose body was found in her blazing automobile.

The car was parked at the rear of a closed service station. The doors and windows were shut.

Dr. Gertrude Moore, pathologist, said death had been caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Officers leaned to the theory of accidental death, believing Miss Goodall might have fallen asleep after driving into the service station and that the fire might have started from a cigaret. They said a fire inside the car would have created poisonous fumes.

NAMES 10 GUARDS

COLUMBUS, —(INS)— Warden Frank D. Henderson today appointed as provisionals 10 guards at Ohio penitentiary. The appointments will be made permanent when the new men pass the regular civil service examinations, Henderson said.

Youngstown Woman's $40,000 Case Ends Out of Court.

The county petit jury's first session under the September court term was cut short late yesterday when a $40,000 personal damage suit was settled while trial of the case was in progress.

The jury recessed until Oct. 23 when attorneys for Mrs. Mary E. Rasmussen of Youngstown, plaintiff, and the Shelby Telephone company, defendant, settled for an unannounced amount. Five witnesses for the plaintiff had been heard by the jury when the settlement was reached. Trial of the case opened yesterday morning.

Mrs. Rasmussen had sought a judgment for injuries she received in January, 1939, in a traffic accident on Route 30 between Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky. She was riding with her husband when their car figured in a collision with one operated by Charles W. Wilson, an employe of the telephone company.

Attys. Henkel and Gongwer, Mansfield, and Wilbur E. Benoy of Columbus, represented the defendant and Attys. Harrington, Huxley and Smith of Youngstown were counsel for Mrs. Rasmussen.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They didn't need artificial perspiration (glycerin) on the jungle sets during the heat wave.

For realism the best bet in town (where the natives don't know what heat is and are all thermometer-watchers) was the "Green Hell" set, where Joan Bennett, Doug Fairbanks, jr., John Howard and the others of the Amazonian jungle scenes were saving the studio a pretty penny in glycerin costs.

"Green Hell" is Famous Production's answer to the catastrophe movie cycle as well as its first picture. It will have wind, a flood, thunder, lightning and landslides—plus fireflies, 5,000 of them.

There's a big jungle set on a sound stage, complete with palms, flowers, vines and trees—and one special tree that is to split several ways from the middle when a stroke of prop-lightning hits it. Behind this, a jungle mural serves as a backdrop—and the backdrop comes to life on the corresponding outdoor set.

The big attraction there, and big is what I mean, is a genial idol who weighs, I'm told, 15 tons and sits on a throne 55-feet high. He sits there grinning, with his jeweled eyes and his gold-painted toe-nails, but that's because, I suspect, he doesn't know yet what's in the script for him. He'll never know. Two workmen are going to pull a trigger on a cable, which will spring a trap on a hilltop above, and let loose nearly a thousand tons of dirt and rock on Mr. Idol's head. It'll all be over in a moment—with no re-takes.

Pending that moment, the whole mess is sustained up there by nice substantial cables. Under it is a good place not to be if there's an accident.

The Amazon itself is interesting too. If Zanuck could build the Hudson on the back lot (for "Little Old New York") Famous apparently figured the Amazon would make it look like a piker. The waters (of the studio Amazon) run five-and-a-half feet deep over an acre of ground, fed by a pipeline from the studio reservoir. And down below there are rapids, extending some 70 yards, down which the men of the piece are supposed to shoot native boats to the settlement.

The Amazon jungles wouldn't be right, according to the research men, if they didn't have fireflies, millions of 'em, and active ones too. But that was no problem, really. They haven't captured millions, but they've gathered enough. They've used tiny flashlight bulbs, and made up 5,000 blinkers. It's up to the special effects men, and the electricians, to make them do their work.

* * *

The war already has worked itself into the movie parlance.

Heard two actors complaining the other day about their working schedules in "independent" pictures.

"Talk about quickies—my part lasted one day, and they finished the whole thing in five!"

"That wasn't a quickie, pal," retorted the other, "that was a blitzkrieg!"

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 13.

ADVERSE or doubtful astral influences are likely to react on this day's business programs, although there are many favorable and felicitous aspects bearing rule on social, romantic, domestic and cultural engagements. The young have many gratifying prospects for success and joyous adventure. In doubtful or critical situations the use of tact, compromise or secret agreement may work better than drastic or high-handed methods.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year to test their stability and resolution, as there are signs of frustrations, delays, disappointments and opposition to be confronted and handled diplomatically and calmly. The young, romantic and sentimental may find many gratifying and happy adventures.

A child born on this day may be intellectual, artistic, emotional and idealistic, despite certain gloomy or melancholy tendencies or depression.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"'But this is none of I'." The quotation came involuntarily to my lips, and Lillian laughed softly.

"I know," she said "It's pretty bewildering, getting a vision into the future that way. But, of course, this isn't the way you'll look 30 years from now. Harry's altered your features so your own husband wouldn't know you if he should meet you face to face, which, in this case, of course, is the thing most to be desired. You've done a marvelous job, Harry. Now I suppose you'd like me to step up to the block."

"If you please," her husband said. "I'm sorry to give you an unattractive coiffure, my dear, but your own snow-white hair is so stunning that I have to give you an altogether different hairdo with this wig, which has some iron-grey in it. And while I'm going to alter your map, I'm not going to make you much older. In the picture we present tonight, Madge and I will be much older than you."

"Isn't that just too cunning?" Lillian gibed. "Little sister tagging along to the party, I suppose."

"Something like that," her husband retorted, grinning. "But get yourself up here, please, or the dinner hour will be over by the time we get to the restaurant, and all their best dishes will be gone.

"You sordid creature, with your soul in your tummy!" Lillian apostrophized, but she wasted no time in seating herself in the chair I had just vacated. While I watched he transformed her face so completely that I would not have known her, especially when her distinctly unbecoming wig was fitted on. But to make recognition of us doubly difficult, Harry provided us both with thick-lensed glasses through which we could see perfectly, but which effectually hid our eyes.

His own transition did not take so long, for he depended for disguise chiefly upon mustachios and vandyke beard of grey-streaked white to match his wig, and he also had glasses. When he finished with himself, he beckoned us to the mirror, put an arm around each of us, and we looked in the glass together, trying to find a trace of our real selves in the picture.

"Well!" Harry said at last. "What's the verdict?"

"That we distinctly will do," his wife returned. "If we were any better, we'd simply curl up and die of sheer perfection. Come on! Let's get our wraps and get going!"

"That's the best word I've heard yet," her husband said. After we had called Gus, who was much impressed by our disguise, and had been ushered by him out of the apartment and given keys to get back into it again, we climbed into the Underwood car and told the guard-chauffeur where to take us.

"Suppose that woman and her companion should be there tonight," I ventured.

"It's 50-50 they will be," Lillian answered, to my surprise. "They have to eat somewhere, and they no doubt want to have a last-minute conference before they stage their big showdown. For my part, I hope they will be. Then we can judge how far we'll have to sit from them to get the low-down on them."

"But, Lillian," I protested, bewildered, "you certainly don't think they'll talk loudly enough so we can hear them? The last time Mary and I were hidden from them by a partition, but it was a flimsy one, and we might as well have been at the same table. But their voices weren't raised."

"It isn't a question of hearing them," Lillian said significantly, "but of having clear, plain vision of them."

"Oh!" I said, enlightened. "You mean lip reading."

"If Providence permits," Lillian answered, and then a breathless Gus swung himself to the running board as we were stopped by a red light at the corner of the block.

"Lucky that light stopped you," he gasped. "I'd never have caught you, else. There's a telephone call for Mrs. Graham, from Mr. Graham. I left the receiver down."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

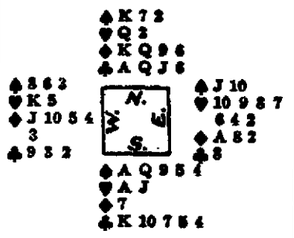
"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE OF COMPLIMENTS

It is all well and good to be complimented by your partner, who leaps up to a game or slam in your suit when he really should go into a game at his own. But it is not so good to let that go to your head and make you play fast in a show-off kind of way. You are really under more than usual obligation to exercise extreme care in such a spot.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here North bid 1-Diamond, East 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs and then South leaped to 6-Clubs because he considered his partner such a start. He should have bid 3-Spades, which would have resulted in his playing the hand at 6-Spades.

North proved false to his trust on the first trick. East led the heart 10 and North, feeling sure from East's bid of the suit that the K was there, played the J. He therefore lost one trick each in the two red suits and was defeated.

Had North studied just a few moment he would have come up with the heart A, dropped the clubs, run the spades, discarding the heart from his own hand and ruffed South's heart loser.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

How do you think this deal should be bid?

HONOR PAIR.

Mrs. Louis Lutz was honored on the occasion of her birthday, and Mrs. Albert Keifer was feted in celebration of her 57th wedding anniversary with a covered-dish dinner party given Wednesday by the Willing Workers of the Little Washington church. Guests were Mrs. Louella Charles and Mrs. Eugene Flory, Mansfield, and Mrs. Clarence James, Lucas. Mrs. Flory gave a travel talk. The society will meet next Wednesday.

NEW HARD-WATER SUDS HELPS KEEP COLOR IN STOCKINGS!

Now see stockings keep their delicate sheerness and fresh color, amazingly longer! See woolens and underwear regain bride-like freshness and color! Colored prints sing with radiant sparkle! Results are startling because science has found a way to make a wonderful new suds, called Vel. Contains no alkali to fade colors. Neither can Vel form ruinous soap-scum, even in hardest water. You can feel this slippery, slimy scum in soap suds. But these amazing new Vel suds feel soft and pure. That's because Vel is not a soap. It's a special new hard-water suds perfected by Colgate. It makes as much as 5 times more suds than expensive soap flakes in hardest water. And it makes hardest water act soft as rainwater. You can see why Vel is better than soap flakes for fine fabrics, because Vel does not form a ring of soap-scum around the bowl. That proves Vel can't leave ruinous soap-scum in your stockings, underwear and woolens, to dull the sheerness and cause a "cottony" look.

The most thrilling proof is the radiant freshness, the soft newness, and lovelier color of ANYTHING you wash in Vel. So easy on hands, too, because Vel suds contain no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin. Buy Vel today at grocers. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company.

CITY'S BRIDES-ELECT FETED WITH PARTIES

The Misses Mary Lou Elsass, Louise English, Doris Frye Guests of Honor at Last Night's Functions; All to Wed Soon.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTIES for three of Mansfield's brides-elect shared last evening's social spotlight. Miss Mary Lou Elsass, who will become the bride of James C. Ford at 2:30 o'clock this Sunday afternoon before the altar of the Park avenue Baptist church, was feted with a shower by Mrs. Lowell Moore at her home on Marion avenue. The Misses Marcille Poth and Helen Myers entertained in honor of Miss Louise English at the Myers home on East Dickson avenue. Miss English will be married to J. Richard Smith on Oct. 21 at the First Methodist church. Another bride of this Sunday is Miss Doris Frye, and a party was given for her at the Beverage tea room by the Misses Betty Bollman, Lydia Bandi and Grace McNeal. Miss Frye and Merle Mabee will be married at the First Christian church.

Receives Gifts.

An autumn theme predominated in Mrs. Moore's party for Miss Elsass. The luncheon table was decorated with fall leaves, pumpkins and fruit, and the leaves around the honoree's place had notes on the back revealing the hiding places of the shower gifts. These gifts were staples, and a messenger brought them to the door in a wagon covered with leaves. All of the staples were concealed in pumpkins, squash and cornhusks. The hostess presented Miss Elsass with an electrical gift.

The guests played card games during the evening, with prizes going to the honoree and Miss Martha Buesser. Mrs. Robert Alexander is giving the spinster party for Miss Elsass this evening at the Town house.

Fete Miss English.

Pink and silver appointments were used for the miscellaneous shower given for Miss English, and the hostesses presented her with a card table on which the gifts were arranged. They also gave her a present of enamelware.

Miss Helen Bowden and Mrs. Leo Mowry won the prizes in bridge and hearts, and refreshments were served at small tables.

* * *

Miss Frye's shower gifts were hung from a clothes line last night at the tea room when the three hostesses presented her with the line, clothes basket and pins. Blue and pink pompons centered the long table at which the guests were seated, and prizes were presented to the Misses Harriett Stearns and Mary Lou Grubaugh when hearts were played.

Columbus Attorney Speaks to Business Women's Group

"THE greatest achievement of women in the future will be to answer the question, what causes war? Mrs. Agnes Dickinson, Columbus attorney, told 105 members and guests of the Mansfield Business and Professional women last night at the public relations dinner held in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Continuing she said, "It has been 25 years since we fought the last war, and nobody knows why it was fought. Women have the leisure and capacity to determine the factors at the root of mass slaughters, and they will find them out," the speaker concluded.

The Misses Irene Figler, Urith Funston and Doris Handel were welcomed into membership last night, and Miss Lena Colgan, program chairman, introduced the speaker. Mayor Claude M. Hunter was a special guest, and members of Ashland and Loudonville clubs were present.

Mrs. Marvel Cowell, club president, introduced Miss Doris Williams, state recording secretary, from Ashland, and Miss Minnie Laudon, chairman of the Florence Allen Scholarship fund, from Mansfield. A short business meeting preceded the talk by Mrs. Dickinson which was entitled "One Hundred Years of Woman's Progress."

Dinner was served at a number of small tables and a large speakers' table. The latter was decorated with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and yellow tapers, and the others were trimmed in heliotrope and yellow.

Invitations to meetings at Wooster Oct. 16, Elyria Oct. 17, Cleveland Oct. 14, Brooklyn Oct. 18, and Lakewood Oct. 19, were read, and Miss Katherine Riggs is in charge of arrangements for attending these sessions.

The Glee club directed by Myrtle Booth and accompanied by Mrs. Cahall sang several numbers.

Last night's program, which was in celebration of National Business and Professional Women's week, was planned by Miss Colgan assisted by Rachel Secrest, Clara Miller, Wilhelmene Cahall, Mabel Torrence. To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

BARGAIN THIEF

EASTLAND, Tex.— (UP) — Cecil Lotief will meet anyone half way. When a thief took several dozen sheets and pillowcases from his automobile, he offered to allow anyone returning the merchandise to keep half the lot. Furthermore, Lotief said he would treat the thief to a breakfast of ham and eggs.

WRECKAGE LOCATED

CONNEAUT, O.—(U.P.)—A fisherman, whose nets became tangled in sunken wreckage near here, is believed to have found the remains of a car ferry which sank, with a loss of 34 lives, in a violent lake storm 29 years ago. The ship foundered on Dec. 8, 1909, in one of the worst tragedies in the history of the Great Lakes.

THEATERS

BEN HECHT and Charlie McArthur break into screen drama again in "His Girl Friday," newspaper story, with Cary Grant as the two-fisted editor of a metropolitan sheet and Rosalind Russell as his girl Friday, or star reporter. Ralph Bellamy enacts an insurance agent. . . . Tony Martin and Orchestra Leader Kostelanetz will appear together in a film, "Passport to Happiness" and at the same time will continue their present radio series. . . . Elizabeth Page's current best-selling novel "The Tree of Liberty," will be filmed by Columbia. It's an early American romance. . . .

Retains Bill.

The Ohio abandons its policy of the past few weeks of showing a new feature in connection with Bank Night on Friday, and retains its current bill through Friday night, with the change on Saturday as usual. At the theater is "Coast Guard," an action-filled drama of the United States Coast Guard, which has a two-fold theme: depicting the work of that branch of service, and a triangle romance between two service men and a skipper's daughter. Randolph Scott, Ralph Bellamy and Frances Dee are featured.

Newcomer and Veteran.

"Here I Am a Stranger" is a dramatic story revolving around the theme that blood is stronger than water, and the characters that prove the old axiom are father and son, played by Richard Dix and Richard Greene. Young Greene, now one of the most popular male leads in pictures, despite the fact that he is practically a newcomer, shares honors with Dix, who is a veteran in screen work. Also on the Madison screen is "Mutiny on the Black Hawk" with Richard Arlin. These two features will be shown for the last time tonight, with a new bill tomorrow. The attraction will be "The Escape" with Kane Richmond and Amanda Duff.

Sun Never Sets.

The loyalty of the Britisher for his country and the traditions of the empire is the inspiration for "The Sun Never Sets," opening tomorrow at the Ritz. The title comes from the saying that the sun never sets on the British Empire. Two brothers, played by Basil Rathbone and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., uphold their family's traditions in the army by "carrying on" in Africa. The last two days of the week also bring a Three Mesquiteers episode with John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Raymond Hatton.

"Sweepstake Winner."

Marie Wilson, one of the brighter girls of Hollywood, who plays very dumb blonds, is starred in "Sweepstakes Winner," which opens at the Majestic tomorrow. Again she plays a none-too-bright waitress in a small town who inherits $1,000 and a race horse, and who goes to the city to make a splurge but instead meets two race track touts, Allen Jenkins and Charley Foy. The money and the horse and the waitress are soon separated. For its second attraction the Majestic will present Fred Stone and Rochelle Hudson in "Konga, the Wild Stallion."

Civil War Drama.

Lew Ayers, who directs pictures between acting in them, directed "Hearts In Bondage," a Park theater attraction for the last half of the week. In the cast are several players who are trying for "comebacks" in movies—James Dunn, Charlotte Henry, Mae Clarke and David Manners. It is a Civil war romance. "The Spellbinder" brings Lee Tracy in one of his typical fast-talking roles, this time as a criminal lawyer.

MEET AGAIN

Brother, Sister Re-United After 47 Years.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Separated in Ireland nearly a half century ago, Mrs. John L. Marmion of Buffalo and her brother, John Mallon of Cambridge, Mass., have been re-united.

Mallon came to the United States 47 years ago, but throughout the year neglected to write home. His sister came here 12 years ago, and thought Mallon dead when efforts to find him proved futile.

Recently, Mallon wrote a parish priest in Ireland, asking his sister's address. He received the information, resulting in the reunion here.

HARD AS STEEL

England Discovers New Metal For Shops.

LONDON — (UP) — Admiralty experts will investigate the claims made for a new metal called navalium when they inspect the ship, Barnacle Bill, which has been lying under conditions of deliberate neglect for several years.

The hull of the Barnacle Bill is constructed of navalium, which is said to be as strong as steel and only one-third the weight.

Such a light weight system of construction would mean either higher speed for a given horsepower, or else that the size of the ship's engines could be drastically decreased without loss of efficiency.

Some authorities are of the opinion that navalium will revolutionize the present design of ships and open up many methods of experimental streamlining.

WPA REBUILDS HISTORIC FORT

Recreates Log Stockade Built By Gen. Anthony Wayne in 1793.

FORT RECOVERY—(U.P.)—Ohio had a "Maginot line" almost 150 years before the French began building their famous bulwark of steel and cement.

This is what thousands of Sunday visitors and other travelers who drive here to see the WPA recreate the log stockade built by Gen. Anthony Wayne in 1793 are learning.

When Arthur St. Clair was appointed the first governor of the Northwest Territory in 1791 the Indians were on the warpath. Cabins were being burned and the settlers killed or taken captive.

It was his idea to establish a chain of forts about 25 miles apart extending from the Ohio river to Lake Erie. He set out from Cincinnati in the fall of 1791 with an army of untrained, unruly recruits, many of whom deserted. He arrived at the site of Fort Recovery Nov. 3 with 1,400 men left.

Little Turtle Led Braves.

During the night they were surprised by Indians under Little Turtle and two-thirds of them were killed or wounded.

At the national capital President Washington heard of the rout and ordered his Revolutionary war colleague Gen. Wayne to subdue the Indians. Wayne carefully drilled a specially-selected army of 2,500 men, constructed several forts and met a force of 2,000 Indians under Little Turtle. At Fallen Timbers he won the battle which broke the back of the Indian power in the Northwest.

Some of Wayne's men were assigned to bury the bodies of the slain men of St. Clair. They gathered together 600 skulls and after burying them erected a fort.

BUCYRUS — B. L. Spurlock, manager of the Bucyrus J. C. Penney company, who suffered five fractured ribs and severe bruises in an automobile collision near Worthington 10 days ago, is reported much improved at City hospital where he has been confined since the accident.

LOOKS TO SUGAR

South Dakota Sees Future In Beet Crops.

SISSETON, S. D.—(UP)—South Dakota's annual income may be "sweetened" to the extent of $1,000,000 a year.

Grant county farmers have been experimenting somewhat successfully with sugar beets, and agriculturists are of the opinion that establishment of a sugar beet plant in the state would net around $1,000,000 in additional income.

The experiments showed sugar beets would yield an average of 10 tons to the acre (the average market sugar beet price is $5 a ton).

The growers said that sugar beets were less affected by drouth than other crops. During last summer's dry period, the beet crop yielded about 80 per cent of normal while corn dropped to as low as 50 per cent.

DEVICE SPEEDS TEETH X-RAYS

Small-Town Dentist Invents Machine Which Permits Pictures Immediately.

MILWAUKEE—(U.P.)— A small-town dentist who disliked making his patients come back a second time to discover the results of an X-ray has invented a device which enables him to throw enlarged X-ray pictures on a screen within a few minutes after they are taken.

Dr. Irving Cook of Gillett, Wis., exhibited his invention at the American Dental Asociation convention here.

The previous problem of drying the films which took considerable time has been solved by attaching the film to a wheel which then dries them by centrifugal force in a few minutes. The same stainless steel reel has a number of slots into which the films are placed beforehand for developing. Dr. Cook also has developed a high-powered projector which utilizes the reel as a film magazine, throwing pictures of the tooth on a screen for the patient to see while still in the dental chair.

"I've found that the patient becomes intensely interested in his teeth when he can be shown," Cook said.

Explaining other advantages of the device, he said it would replace about $1,000 worth of models the ordinary dentist keeps in his office to explain his patient's troubles. The models are not satisfactory, he explained, because they are artificial.

"My device," he said, "will cost only $100. Besides using it in his office, the denitst can utilize it for clinical demonstrations and for public lectures—say to school children—for it will throw an image large enough to fill a screen 8 by 10 feet, and by using modern color film the lesson is made extremely vivid."

LINE TOO BUSY

Shed Burns While Parties Refuse to Yield Phone.

LORAIN — (U.P.) — Mary Spahia no longer can appreciate the humor of the story of Nero fiddling while Rome burned.

Miss Spahia ran to a neighbor's telephone when a shed began burning. She found the party line in use. They refused to hang up, although Miss Spahia pleaded it was a fire-alarm call.

The shed had burned by the time firemen had been summoned via another neighbor's phone.

Aid For Finland

In event Russia decides Finland would be a tender morsel to devour, and Finland fights back as indicated, a women's auxiliary, commanded by Fanni Luukkonen, above, is ready to assist the homeland. The women's organization is known as the Lotta Svard.

BUCYRUS—Chief of Police Arthur Stuckert is investigating the forced entrance to the City Coal and Building Supply company office Tuesday night. The safe, which was unlocked, was looted but a check up showed nothing missing. Entrance was gained through a door from the supply room.

TOWN OF 1690 TO BE RESTORED

Episcopal Leaders Push Plans To Rehabilitate Old Seaport Of Bath, N. C.

BATH, N. C.—(U.P.)—Restoration of the quaint old seaport of Bath, N. C., is giving to modern America the haunts of Blackbeard the Pirate, the church attended by early American colonists and homes built more than two centuries ago.

Plans for restoring the historical village are being pushed by the Episcopal leaders of the East Carolina Diocese. There interest springs from the Bath Episcopal church, built in 1834, and recognized as the oldest church building in the state today.

Called "The Cathedral" because it is ruled directly by the bishop, the building still is in excellent condition with original handmade doors and hand-cut wooden pews. It is to be restored and converted into a national shrine.

A museum will be opened near the church and a colonial garden planted in the rear. The church bell, still rung for services, was presented to the parish by Queen Anne of England, and a silver candelabra on the altar was the gift of King George II.

The old Marsh house nearby, built in 1714, will be converted into a rectory. Architecturally unique, it has an English brick chimney 17 feet wide and four feet thick with huge windows that open on closets.

Also to be rehabilitated is the public library, started in 1700. It was the first library in North Carolina.

Of great interests are the ruins of an old house near Bath creek where Edward Teach—"blackbeard the Pirate"—is said to have lived during his days of power. Ruins of his ships may be seen there at low tide.

Bath has grown little since it was settled by white men about 1690. Originally it was the Indian town of Pampticiugh, but was renamed for the English city when it was incorporated in 1705.

Political Career For Al, Jr.

With the helping hand of his father, Alfred E. Smith, jr., launches a political career in New York by filing a petition for New York City councilman. His father, Alfred E. Smith, sr., former governor of New York and Democratic presidential candidate, is with him.

FRESH EGGS MAY VARY

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — The term "fresh eggs" depends upon where you are. A WPA research project here found that in six states only those produced within the state are "fresh eggs," and several states require not only branding of containers but add a stipulation that each egg be stamped "shipped."

PUBLIC VIEWS TOYS, PLAYROOM OF BRITISH PRINCESSES' IN INFANCY

LONDON—(U.P.)—Princess Margaret Rose used the same plain bassinette cot, with a white-painted iron frame, that held Princess Elizabeth in her infancy.

This cot, their babyhood playthings and the bathroom they used, with its large old-fashioned porcelain- bath and wash-basin, are among the things surrounding their early childhood which can now be seen by the public at their old home at 145 Piccadilly.

An exhibition of royal and historic treasures, in the house where the king and queen and the little princesses lived before Edward VIII abdicated has been placed on view, where the public can see it until Sept. 29. Proceeds from the admission will go to the Heritage Craft Schools, at Chailey, Sussex.

Virtually all of the rooms used by the family before it moved to Buckingham Palace are on view. Other members of the royal family lent objects of interest, and the whole exhibition has been insured for 1,000,000 pounds.

The center of interest for most visitors is the suite on the second floor occupied by the princesses. There they can see the old playroom and Princess Margaret's tiny bedroom. Both rooms overlook Picadilly, and double windows deaden the noise of traffic outside. Stout iron bars were placed across the windows for safety. From Princess Elizabeth's bedroom a bay window overlooks the garden at the back. The walls of the suite were decorated with plain gray-green wallpaper and the woodwork was cream colored.

The center of Princess Elizabeth's room has been filled with the favorite toys of the two children.

Pat, a sturdy little boy doll wearing a yellow jersey and breeches, is said to have been the favorite of the royal dolls. Another, rivalling Pat in the princesses' esteem, was a doll dresed in a Welsh costume, which was carefully inspected by David Lloyd George before it was given to the children, so that the details are perfect.

There is the furniture which the princesses used when they gave their dolls tea parties, a wooden doll cradle made for them by members of the crew of the yacht Victoria and Albert, and an old Victorian watch which Elizabeth played with until it was broken.

The princesses cot stands in the center of the toys.
